Unemployment Dips Slightly But Still Highest Since 1964

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania unemployment dipped slightly to 5.2 per cent in May. But Labor and Industry Secretary Paul Smith said Thursday he found the overall statistics discouraging because the traditional April-May seasonal drop didn't occur.

"Although part of the problem... was the beginning of the influx of students into the labor market for summer jobs, unemployment is still running higher than last year at this time (4.8 per cent)," he said. "In fact, unemployment continues at the highest rate the state has had since 1964."

The May percentage translated to 265,000 unemployed. The April percentage was 5.3.

Smith said he felt the "economy in the state and the nation simply hasn't yet improved enough to stimulate new jobs for the growing labor force."

At the same time the department announced 66 workers in the state were killed on the job in April, the highest monthly toll in the labor force since September 1969, when 78 fatalities were recorded.

Ailing Man Confesses Murder 37 Years After Indictment

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Thirty-seven years after being indicted on a murder charge, ailing Lonnie Cross surrendered to police, saying he wanted to "get right with the Lord."

"I'm in jail for the first time in my 66 years," said the bent old man who suffers from arthritis and headaches he said have plagued him since he was hit by a car about 20 years ago. "But I wasn't free until the spirit of the Lord told me to come to Jacksonville and tell what happened back there," he said.

Cross limped into the Duval County sheriff's office Wednesday night and said he wanted to "get right with the Lord" by confessing to killing a man 37 years ago.

State Atty. Don Nichols checked court records and found a first-degree murder indictment was returned Dec. 13, 1935, charging Lonnie Smith, alias Lonnie Cross, with the knife slaying of Edward Bozler on Nov. 3, 1935.

In a jail interview Thursday, Cross said he had lived in New Orleans under the name Richard Mosley since 1937.

Cross has refused to discuss the circumstances of the slaying, but a copy of the coroner's inquest describes a scene of violence that began with a hot piece of cake and ended with Bozler on the floor with a knife blade jammed into his head.

The inquest report quoted witnesses as saying Cross became angry when he tried to eat a piece of cake hot from the oven and it fell from his hands.

Then he went into a room "to play with" his common law wife, but she said, "I don't feel good," and Cross pulled a knife and cut her on the hand, back and shoulder, the report stated. "Essie B. Smith," who said

Multimillion Dollar Rural Development Plan Okayed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate-House conferees, tossing out a revenue-sharing plan, agreed Thursday on a multimillion-dollar program to rebuild rural America and thus lure people out of crowded cities.

A congressional conference committee settled on terms of a compromise that would authorize about $500 million a year in grant funds and extensively expand loan authority for intensive rural-development activities.

A Senate-passed provision calling for a revenue-sharing method of financing programs with the states, with funding at some $500 million a year, was deleted by the Senate-House conferees in an attempt to get a bill that could clear Congress this year.

Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman Herman E. Talmadge, D-Ga., called the compromise "the most significant rural-development legislation ever to come out of the Congress."

The legislation covers rural communities of up to 10,000 persons, with industrial loans available for cities of up to 50,000.

Grants would be provided to improve conditions through such programs as pollution abatement and setting up industrial centers providing jobs for the unemployed.

Funding authorization ranges from $300 million a year for water-and-waste-disposal projects—a $200-million annual boost in grants for such assistance compared with existing provisions—to grants of $75 million a year for fighting pollution in rural areas.

Furthermore, $50 million a year would be earmarked for aid to public groups for developing industrial parks and other community facilities.

The bill gives the Farmers Home Administration, for the first time, authority to make loans for small business and industrial loans in these programs of building industrial parks to spur creation of jobs.

Loans also would go for such things as building firehouses and community centers in rural areas, and authorization would be given to a pilot program of rural fire protection.

Czech Plane Hijacked; Pilot Killed, Two Hurt

WEIDEN, Germany (AP) — Eleven persons bent on escape to the West hijacked a Czechoslovak airliner to West Germany Thursday, killing the pilot in the struggle to take over the plane. The injured copilot landed the aircraft safely just inside the West German border.

The seven men, three women and a child, all Czechoslovak nationals, asked for political asylum.

The chief prosecutor of Weiden said he would apply for arrest warrants against all members of the hijacking group except the child. Hijacking became a crime in West Germany last year.

The copilot suffered a broken nose in a cockpit struggle, but succeeded in landing the twin-engine Slov-Air turboprop plane on a small field 15 miles inside the West German border. A third crew member also was injured in the struggle with the hijackers.

The plane, an L410, was on a regularly scheduled flight from Marianske Lazne, the former Marienbad, to Prague, with 14 passengers and three crewmen.

The International Civil Aviation Organization, based in Montreal, has two other hijacking pilot deaths on record.

Police gave this account of Thursday's hijacking: Five minutes after takeoff, a

Algeria Agrees To Return Hijack Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — Algeria has agreed to return the $500,000 extorted by the hijackers of a Western Airlines airplane last weekend, the State Department said today.

Spokesman Charles W. Bray said the Algerian government informed the U.S. interest section in Algiers this morning of the intention to return the ransom. Bray said details of the transaction are being worked out.

He also said the Algerian government is still investigating the incident and has made no decision about returning the two hijackers to the United States or prosecuting them in Algeria.

Two Americans, William Holder and Katherine Kerkow, have been identified as the pair that hijacked the airliner in California last Friday and ordered it flown to Algiers where they asked for political asylum.

The 22-year-old Holder described himself as a military helicopter pilot and he wore an Army uniform during the hijacking. He was accompanied by Miss Kerkow, 20, who said she was an oceanography student.

Senate Confirms Kleindienst As Attorney General; Vote, 64-19

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid clashing cries of politics and cover-up, the Senate confirmed by a 64-19 vote Thursday Richard G. Kleindienst's nomination as attorney general.

The nomination of the conservative Arizona lawyer to succeed John N. Mitchell in the Cabinet post was submitted by President Nixon on Feb. 15.

It became enmeshed in a controversy over the Justice Department's out-of-court settlement last year of three antitrust cases against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

In the final debate before the vote, liberal Democrats contended an effort to get the full story on whether a political deal was involved in the settlement had been stymied.

But Republicans retorted that the Democrats were playing election-year politics and that no evidence had been produced of any improper conduct by Kleindienst.

Immediately after the vote, Kleindienst said he was "humbled and flattered" by the Senate action.

"I am deeply grateful for the opportunity now to go back to work as attorney general of the United States without the interruption and intervention of this kind of situation," he said.

Columnist Jack Anderson, whose allegations prompted the investigation, called the Senate vote "an exercise in cynicism." "Most Republicans and Democrats alike ignored the evidence," he said. "No wonder

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Thursday passed the $21.3-billion education bill containing the strongest antibusing provision ever approved by Congress.

The bill, which authorizes funds for a wide variety of programs ranging from elementary school to graduate school, was sent to President Nixon by a vote of 218 to 180.

Its busing provision would halt for 18 months any school desegregation ordered by the federal courts until all appeals have been exhausted.

An unusual coalition formed by members who objected to any limitations on the courts in their efforts to desegregate the schools and those who wanted more than the bill would provide opposed the bill.

Its backers tried to soft-pedal the busing issue and stressed the educational benefits of the bill in bidding for support.

The major educational provisions would:

—Launch a new program of direct federal aid to colleges and universities that could provide them with as much as $1 billion a year.

—Entitle every college student to a grant of $1,400 a year, minus what his parents could afford to contribute toward his education.

—Authorize $1 billion a year to help elementary and secondary schools desegregate.

—Establish a National Institute of Education to foster research into all aspects of the learning process.

The money figures in the bill only set the ceilings for the program. The actual funds would have to be appropriated in separate legislation and could be considerably lower.

Secretary Elliot L. Richardson of Health, Education and Welfare said the bill is "a landmark in the history of higher education" although he said its antibusing provisions are deficient.

"The amendments do not provide for a clearly defined busing moratorium," Richardson said. "They do not establish a clear set of equitable national standards for desegregating schools and they do not target funds for compensatory education in depth on those in greatest need."

Despite the massive aid authorized and the sweeping nature of the bill, almost all the debate centered on the busing provisions, which were added originally by the House in stronger form.

A compromise with the Senate all but nullified two of the amendments dealing with funds for busing and put a Jan. 1, 1974, deadline on the key provision blocking court orders while appeals are pending. The original House version would have made it permanent law.

Antibusing forces, who objected to the weakening effect of the compromise, led the fight to defeat the bill.

The vote split both parties sharply, 130 Democrats and 88 Republicans supporting the bill, and 104 Democrats and 76 Republicans voting against it.

Flashing Lights For Emergency Vehicles To Be Discontinued Monday

The practice of activating the flashing lights during runs by emergency vehicles such as ambulances, fire fighting equipment, police cruisers in Warren Borough will cease effective Monday, June 12, according to Police Chief Bernard Winegardner.

The directive to the chief came from Mayor Wayne Painter after the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation notified the borough that the practice was illegal.

The responsibility as of Monday will rest with the motorists as to proceeding with care and being more alert to the sound of the siren on the emergency vehicles. The latter, too, are urged to operate with care.

The flashing lights have been termed dangerous by PennDOT and many other communities no longer operate them.

The borough is in the midst of studies to update other facets of its traffic light system.

Gum Chewing Boy Wins National Spelling Bee

WASHINGTON (AP) — Admittedly "very, very nervous" and chewing gum vigorously, Robin Karl of Lamesa, Tex., spelled two words he had never heard before Thursday to win the 45th annual National Spelling Bee.

"I took a good guess," he said in explaining his correct spelling of the words macerate and garnett. "I never heard either of them before."

Robin, 14, got his chance at garnett, which is a fiber-cleaning machine, after Lauren H. Pringle, 13, of Buffalo, N.Y., misspelled it as garnet. Then, to capture the championship, Robin spelled macerate, which means to waste away by excessive fasting.

It was Robin's fourth trip to the spelling bee finals, which he prepared for by studying a list of words given to him by his sponsor, the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal. His parents, Robert and Willa Karl, were with him.

Asked how soon he plans to resume studying spelling, Robin replied jubilantly, "Never!"

Some 7.5 million youths aged 11 through 14 participated in the competition, which began with local contests, most of them sponsored by newspapers.

Seventy-five finalists made it to Washington, where final elimination rounds began Wednesday.

French, Italian, Greek, Spanish, Japanese, Yiddish and Hawaiian words were scattered among the English words as well as such slang expressions as oomph, lulu, wiseacre and whodunit.

Robin won a trophy, $1,000 and a weekend trip to New York City. Lauren won $500 for second place and Joseph J. Vissers, 13, of Elmdorf Air Force Base, Alaska, got $250 for placing third.

Joseph misspelled demaree, which means removing the queen bee from the colony to prevent swarming.

the American people are turning sour on our political system."

Later, the Senate confirmed by 83 to 0 the nomination of another Cabinet member, George P. Shultz, to be secretary of the Treasury. There had been no organized opposition.

No Republicans voted against Kleindienst's confirmation, while the Democrats lined up 26 for the nomination and 19 against.

Of the Democratic presidential candidates in the Senate, only Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington voted for confirmation. The others either voted or were recorded in opposition.

The liberal Democrats who led the opposition had hoped to make a better showing. They had been estimating privately they could muster 25 votes against Kleindienst.

The Senate Judiciary Committee held 22 days of hearings investigating whether the settlement was linked to a pledge by ITT's Sheraton Hotel subsidiary to help San Diego meet the costs of a Republican National convention.

Kleindienst, who approved the settlement as deputy attorney general, swore to the committee that he had no knowledge of the convention contribution until months later.

The committee, in a majority report to the Senate, held the settlement was the result of arm's length negotiations and not the product of political influence.

The committee majority has rejected several moves to reopen hearings.

Shultz Approved, 83-0 As Treasury Secretary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Thursday confirmed, 83 to 0, President Nixon's nomination of one of his most trusted advisers, George P. Shultz, as secretary of the Treasury.

Shultz will succeed John B. Connally, who served 16 months in the key fiscal position.

This was the second Cabinet post for which the 51-year-old Shultz had been approved.

He served as secretary of Labor in Nixon's original Cabinet. After 17 months in that job, he was moved over to the White House to become director of the President's Office of Management and Budget.

Shultz is an economist. He served as dean of the Graduate School of Business at the University of Chicago before joining the Nixon administration.

The Finance Committee approved the nomination without dissent May 25. But Senate Republican leaders asked that it not be acted on in the Senate until the controversial nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to be Attorney General had been voted on.

Confirmed with Shultz were these other high Treasury officials:

Charles E. Walker of Connecticut to be deputy secretary, No. 2 man in the department. Edwin S. Cohen of Virginia to be undersecretary.

John M. Hennnessy of Massachusetts to be an assistant secretary.

Lee H. Henkel, Jr., of Georgia to be chief counsel for the Internal Revenue Service.

Air Taxis Help Move U.S. Mail

"Air taxis" are filling the mail transportation void which exists when commercial airlines do not have adequate flights scheduled, according to the U.S. Postal Service.

Warren is serviced by one of the Eastern Region's 27 air taxi routes. Nightly trips are made between Baltimore, Pittsburgh, Oil City and Erie (640 miles) carrying up to 2,500 pounds of mail.

Thirty-one aircraft now service the routes under the jurisdiction of the Eastern Region. They fly an average of 14,567 miles per night five days a week and are capable of air lifting 74,500 pounds of mail per night.

Jet "air taxi" mail service between Philadelphia and Columbus, Ohio, was initiated May 15. This air taxi is a twin-engine Falcon Jet with a cruising speed of 500 miles per hour. The round trip is made in less than three hours carrying 3,500 pounds of mail.

The flying of mail in light aircraft on a contract basis came into being in the midwest during the summer of 1967. The original idea was to transport first class mail in a small area of regional territory. The system has been improved upon and expanded.

The airplane has been a vital tool for the transportation of mail almost since its humble beginning back in 1903 at Kitty Hawk, N.C., where the Wright brothers flew the first heavier-than-air machine. Pilots like Frank Yager and Jack Knight pioneered air transportation of mail. They flew light planes, without radio facilities, marked airways or other aids to navigation.

4,250 X-Rays Reported During Survey

Warren County residents received 4,250 Christmas Seal chest x-rays during the recent seven-day county-wide health survey, according to Mrs. Catherine Anderson, Warren area survey director for Northwestern Pennsylvania TB and Health Society. The figure combined the general public and industrial employees.

In a breakdown of public locations, the number of x-rays were: North Warren, 126; Sugar Grove, 63; Sheffield 126; Youngsville 154; Warren 710 and Tidouite 113.

Industrial locations were: National Forge 800; Loranger Plastics, 117; Walker's Creamery 26; Betts Machine, 96; Warren Concrete, 78; Pennco Industries, 96; Solar Electric 119; Pittsburgh DesMoines, 89; Warren Components, 57; Youngsville Star Manufacturing 56; Sylvania Electric 803; and Struthers Wells 374.

Three convalescent homes were also included in the survey: Watson Memorial Home 39; Barley Nursing Home 25 and Rouse Home 183.

Each chest x-ray has been studied by a medical specialist. Cards notifying each participant of the result of the studies have been mailed to everyone covered by the area respiratory health survey.

Error In Report

CORRY — State police at the Corry substation said Wednesday that a typographical error in their police report may have led to an error in the report about a missing Corry youth. Ronald Clayton, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clayton, RD 1, Corry, has been missing from his home since June 1, not the first of January as was reported.

S. Vietnamese Forces Advance Into Enemy-Held Territory

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese marines stormed the nine-mile defense line above Hue and advanced into enemy-held territory Thursday while U.S. officials disclosed the heaviest air strikes over North Vietnam in three weeks.

Close to Saigon, government troops battled North Vietnamese forces menacing the capital's western flanks. A South Vietnamese bomber trying to flush out the enemy at Trang Bang accidentally dropped napalm on young children, villagers and government soldiers, killing or wounding about 20 persons.

About 1,000 men fought several hundred North Vietnamese at the district town 28 miles northwest of Saigon. They called in napalm and bombs.

In neighboring Cambodia, enemy ground and rocket attacks on the capital of Phnom Penh and the nearby town of Takhmau killed at least 20 persons, including 18 women and children huddled in trenches.

Navy and Air Force pilots smashed a trucking center on the outskirts of Hanoi and ranged near Haiphong and the southern port of Vinh, crippling bridges, petroleum depots and supply caches 9 and 17 miles above the demilitarized zone, the U.S. Command said.

Associated Press correspondent Richard Blystone reported more than 2,000 marines, using tanks and backed by massive U.S. air support and naval guns, moved over the My Chanh River into northernmost Quang Tri Province.

High sources said the mission was to take prisoners, evacuate refugees and gather intelligence, but they did not rule out the possibility of holding ground which might put them within striking distance of Quang Tri.

Associated Press photographer Huynh Cong Ut reported from Trang Bang that perhaps a score of civilians and soldiers were killed or wounded by the napalm dropped in the wrong place by a South Vietnamese air force A1 Skyraider. The propeller-driven plane dropped four drums of jellied gasoline only 50 yards from a Cao Dai temple.

Medics treated youngsters whose skin had been charred in the searing inferno.

Military sources revealed another accidental air attack occurred Wednesday, southwest of My Chanh, where airborne troops are pushing against enemy soldiers above Hue. South Vietnamese A37 jets struck advance paratrooper units, killing nine and wounding 21, the sources said.

Over-all casualty figures released Thursday showed 11 Americans were killed in action, two died of nonhostile causes, and 20 were wounded in the week ending June 3, bringing casualties since the start of the offensive March 30 to 85 killed and 266 wounded. The U.S. figures represented little change from previous weeks. South Vietnamese authorities listed their casualties for the week as 912 killed—the highest death toll in six weeks—plus 3,281 wounded and 274 missing. Enemy deaths were given as 4,314.

As for the rest of the world, it would take a year for gold production to increase, the experts say. Mine operators would have to be convinced the price rise was permanent before they would invest the funds to bring out and treat more ore. In addition, the costs of labor and equipment in gold mines is rising rapidly. The rise in the gold price is barely keeping pace with these costs.

Hijack

member of the group—a 23-year-old student from Prague—forced his way into the cockpit, pressed a pistol against the pilot's neck, and ordered the plane to West Germany.

A crew member grappled with the gunman, other hijackers came to his aid, and in the struggle the gun went off. The pilot, Jan Micica, 52, and the father of three children, slumped dead over the controls.

The copilot, although wounded, gained control of the plane and landed it 40 miles short of the hijackers' intended destination of Nuernberg, site of a West German camp for political refugees.

An airfield official said that as soon as the plane came to a halt "the occupants threw out their baggage and jumped out of the plane... While some of the men and women moved toward our building, two young men ran in the other direction toward the woods."

Police reported taking two men into custody in a wood near the airfield. Neither was said to be armed at the time, but a pistol later was reported found near the scene.

The airfield official said the copilot and the other injured man were taken to a Weiden hospital for treatment.

The child, he said, was in a baby carriage and uninjured.

Marine's Body Found On Guadacanal

A Johnstown, Pa. man has been identified as one of five Marines whose remains have been found by a forester on Guadalcanal, one of the Solomon Islands in the Pacific Ocean, according to a U.S. Marine spokesman.

The spokesman noted that Pfc. David W. Johns of Johnstown was 19-years when he was killed in action Oct. 9, 1942. Johns' brother, Harold was killed on a small island in the Pacific in July of 1942, according to the men's mother, Mrs. Nydia Johns, 75.

Officials say that Johns' remains, along with the other four Marines, will be brought to the United States for burial in Arlington National Cemetery, June 28.

Forest Service Gets Federal Allocation

Congressman Albert W. Johnson reported Thursday that the first leg on the appropriation trophy for Warren County has been secured.

The House Appropriations Committee Thursday reported to the House for a vote in the near future, the appropriation bill for the Department of the Interior and related agencies. The measure includes $300,000 for use by the U.S. Forest Service to construct 75 family units and three toilet buildings at Tracy Camp Grounds; a master plan for the Allegheny Reservoir area, pressurized water system and electric power at Tracy Ridge, as well as completion for the information center.

The appropriation bill also includes $125,000 for construction of the fish hatchery at the base of Kinzua Dam, this amount to be added to the $693,000 already appropriated.

The request for $150,000 in additional funds for the Forest Research lab has been referred to the Senate Committee for consideration.

Muskie Asks For More Time To Decide Future Role In Campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George McGovern talked with Sen. Edmund S. Muskie Thursday, and McGovern said Muskie asked for more time to decide his future role in the campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"There was no pressure from me to get him to withdraw or release his delegates," McGovern said after a brief discussion with Muskie in a room off the Senate floor.

Aides to Muskie confirmed the meeting. And they said Muskie would announce his decision Friday in a luncheon address to the National Press Club here.

Reports persisted that Muskie would abandon entirely his campaign and support McGovern.

McGovern said he and Muskie discussed only "staying in contact and avoiding disrupting the Democratic party."

McGovern quoted Muskie as saying he was most interested in defeating President Nixon. "And so am I," McGovern said.

Later, both Muskie and McGovern told newsmen their meeting was "friendly and neighborly" but would not disclose details.

Muskie replied with a smile and a "No" when asked if he had any specific plans at this point to release his delegates to McGovern.

The two senators posed for photographers and were joined by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., another Democratic hopeful.

As for talk that Muskie is leaning toward McGovern,

Humphrey said, "The only information I have comes from you gentlemen of the press."

Muskie has 166 delegates committed to him at the Democratic National convention. If these were added to the 907½ McGovern now holds, it would give McGovern a clear shot at the 1,509 delegate votes to win the nomination.

McGovern, of South Dakota, Muskie, of Maine, and Humphrey were in Washington for the Senate vote on confirming Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general. All opposed Kleindienst's nomination.

Two other Democratic hopefuls met Thursday. Rep. Shirley Chisholm, of New York, paid a 15-minute visit to Alabama Gov. George Wallace, in a Silver Spring, Md., hospital where Wallace has been since he was shot at a campaign rally May 15.

Mrs. Chisholm said they had a pleasant visit.

"We both in our way fight for what we both believe," she said.

On the Republican side, former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell said President Nixon would not conduct an abrasive campaign this fall in his bid for reelection.

"I can assure you ... we are going to run the type of campaign that will reflect the dignity of the incumbent," Mitchell, national campaign director of the Committee for the Re-election of the President, said at a news conference.

Herb Klein, White House communications director, noted McGovern had said he (McGovern) would go anywhere, including Hanoi if necessary, to negotiate an end to the war in Vietnam.

"I think Mr. McGovern jumps over the lot too often and he may regret some of the things he said," Klein said at a Detroit news conference. He said Paris is the proper place for talks.

Political attention centered on the McGovern-Muskie situation.

McGovern lunched privately with three senators who support his nomination and one of them, Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., later said:

"He's confident he's got the nomination and so are we."

Ribicoff said the question of a Muskie endorsement was not discussed.

Task Force Urges Revision Of GI Bill

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A special House task force Thursday urged major revision of the federal GI Bill by increasing the educational subsistence allowance for veterans by at least 25 per cent and providing a maximum $1,000 a year for tuition.

Chairman William Lederer, D-Philadelphia, in releasing preliminary report after several public hearings, noted that today's veteran gets $175 a month if single and $230 if married. There is no extra payment for tuition, as in the post-World War II period.

The subsistence allowance, Lederer said, "is hardly enough to even cover tuition in today's colleges and universities, let alone, books, fees, clothing, transportation and room and board."

The report calls on the state House to adopt a resolution urging Congress to enact the proposal.

The landmark Penn Kane Hotel in Kane will be closed June 15 and Peter Avenali said he might remodel, at least the first few floors. The hotel had been optioned for possible use as a facility for housing elderly persons but it was reported recently the project was not in line with Housing and Urban Development (HUD) funding. The big 120 room hotel has been in partial use with the owner slowly curtailing facilities. Avenali also indicated he might consider selling the property. The five-story hotel for many years was a favorite stopping place in Kane, busy in the summer months with health visitors centering a "colony" there and filled to overflow during big game seasons.

Political Promises

That political promises are seldom kept, only placed in safe keeping until the next campaign rolls around, becomes more evident with every passing day. As we listen to the current crop of presidential aspirants there's more than a little of the familiar in their declarations. And it's a pretty safe bet the party platforms, yet to be written, will contain many of the same old platitudes.

"We must bring about a national commitment to rebuild our urban and rural slums. We must bring about quality education for all," the platforms will state.

"We must attack the root causes of poverty and eradicate racism, hatred and violence," they will continue.

"We must give all citizens the opportunity to influence and shape the events of our times.

"We must give increased attention to the views of the young and recognize their key role in our present as well as our future."

In addition, we can expect the candidates to make such statements as: "We must put an end to the increases in the cost of living—stop inflation." "Strike a true balance between wages and prices." "We must reduce the heavy tax burden." "The position of the dollar must be strengthened." "The balance-of-trade crisis must be resolved." And, of course, "We must be in a position to assure jobs to returning Vietnam veterans."

Such were the pledges and promises made by the Republican Party and its successful candidate during the 1968 presidential campaign, so why think that the Democratic Party and its candidate won't be "assuring" the voters in a similar fashion as their bandwagon rolls along toward the November election. Such is politics.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Nobody Knows Nixon

Richard Nixon is the man nobody knows. He is humorless, sincere, intense, secretive, a patriot, an indefatigable worker who never cracks, a good husband and father, one of the few men who can stand apart from himself and watch the President with a critical eye.

Nobody knows him. Among men he has alliances, not friends. In small groups, Mr. Nixon is suspicious and aloof. In large crowds, he holds both arms aloft in a victory sign, even when rocks and tomatoes are thrown at him. He believed in personal friendships when he ran for governor of California against Pat Brown in 1962.

He lost and his pals deserted him. Now he has deserted them. While he was in Moscow, I reread his book "Six Crises"; Earl Mazo's "Richard Nixon"; Bela Kornitzer's "The Real Nixon"; "Nixon, a Political Portrait," by Stephen Hess and Earl Mazo; and Professor James David Barber's new psychological work (Prentice-Hall), "The Presidential Character."

Nixon Calculates

While the President—in spite of home-grown critics—was hammering out solid gains in the Soviet Union, I read in bed, making annotations, trying to piece the man together. It is impossible. The President may not be characterized as a man. He is a computer. I now surmise that there is nothing he says or does offhand; everything down to the last word and smile is calculated.

This is not to detract from his performance. His mind runs in logical numerals: "Point One. Point Two. Let me make one thing clear..." He has no time for frivolities. One cannot imagine Richard Nixon on the third floor of the White House playing poker for $20 stakes as Harry Truman did.

He has weaknesses. At times he permits himself a towering rage; at others he weeps. But these are not our business. What is our concern is that, after solemn soul-searching, President Nixon lays out a plan of battle and adheres to it rigidly even when defeat sits on his shoulder.

He ordered his subordinates to deny that he was moving into Cambodia, when he was. He proclaimed a gradual de-escalation of the war when he must have known that the North Vietnamese would save all their strength to launch an embarrassing offense in Nixon's election year.

He was prodded, two years to late, to inaugurate wage-price controls. Mr. Nixon carries a big nuclear stick and waves it alarmingly while talking peace. He has such inordinate reverence for the office of President of the United States that he permits no criticism, from within or without. He is his own critic.

If he is elected for a second term, Mr. Nixon will be completely inflexible because he will have climbed the final mountain and will owe nothing to anyone. When I knew him, in 1960, he made speeches for minor Republican candidates from Salem, Massachusetts, to Salem, Oregon. He wore himself out. No work was too menial or too enervating.

More Clergy Than Politico

Within himself, Professor Barber of Yale finds that Nixon thinks of the price of success as "suffering, indications of depression, anxiety and sadness." He flogs himself to do what is right and good. He is more like a committed clergyman than a politician. When he begins to relax, to chat with his daughters and sons-in-law about day-to-day life, huge red political warnings fly in his mind and he turns away to solitude.

Tom Wicker of "The New York Times" read Nixon's "Six Crises" and arrived at a similar conclusion: "It offers almost no answer at all to the question that has hung from the beginning over his head, 'What kind of man is he?'" Ask Nixon and he says, "My philosophy has always been: don't lean with the wind. Don't do what is politically expedient. Do what your instinct tells you is right."

No team man talks like that. This is a man alone. His television speeches are replete with phrases such as: "Of course, the ultimate decision in this matter will be mine, as your President." Subconsciously, he may regard himself more as a sovereign than a constitutional President (when the Supreme Court busing issue went against him, he proposed thwarting the court by ignoring the law). Mr. Nixon is basically a hard-working, hard-driving Eagle Scout in the best sense of the term.

A man who respects none but his own counsel....

In The Nation

Senator Humphrey's Opportunity

By Tom Wicker

NEW YORK —In December of 1970, newly elected as the junior Senator from Minnesota, Hubert Humphrey looked over the political scene and declared that "in December of 1971, if one man is ahead, Democrats ought to join ranks and get him nominated" for President. The party, he said as its titular leader, "cannot go through what it did in 1968...we are not so rich in votes, talent or money that we can afford to squander any of it on fratricidal conflict."

That was an impractical vision in December, 1970, because it took no account of the ambitions of men—not least the perfectly legitimate ambitions of Hubert Humphrey. In June, 1972, it has become an intensely practical view because, one by one, John Lindsay, Eugene McCarthy, Edmund Muskie, Henry Jackson and now Hubert Humphrey have failed or withdrawn in the quest for the Democratic Presidential nomination. That leaves George McGovern of South Dakota as the clear and only survivor of the long and difficult primary campaign, as well as the best organized and most successful contender in the state conventions.

(George Wallace supporters may not accept that conclusion, and indeed Mr. Wallace's shooting does leave something of a question mark hanging over the 1972 campaign. Few believe, however, that Wallace could have been nominated in any case; and the despicable attempt on his life has made that all but certain.)

So the path of real statesmanship for Hubert Humphrey—as well as for Edmund Muskie and Edward Kennedy, the only other conceivable alternatives—may well be a withdrawal from the race and a solid endorsement for McGovern. After

Handwriting On The Wall

By Mason Denison

Handwriting On The Wall? —Governor Shapp's letter to lawmakers the other day urging that his $3.6 billion spending document for upcoming fiscal 1972-73 be adopted by July 1, the start of the new year, is perhaps more notable for what was not said!

Should the Legislature not clear the budget by the start of the new fiscal year—which incidentally has been more the rule than the exception in recent years—it would mean the administration would be faced with operating via the so-called "stop-gap" appropriation route, in which temporary carry-over funds are given legislative clearance.

Such stop-gaps provide for spending only at the current level—not at the near half-billion dollar increase proposed by His Excellency for the coming fiscal year.

Last year, it will be recalled, the Governor was in fits of irritation up to his ears when the Legislature started moving along the stop-gap route, which prompted His Excellency to roar that if more stop-gaps were forthcoming he'd close down state government. Thereupon the Legislature cleared his budget.

Such a threatening roar was not contained in the current missive dispatched to the Keystone State's 253 legislators; nothing was said, in other words, about what the Governor would do if stop-gaps were sent his way this year.

Perhaps His Excellency sees the handwriting on the wall; handwriting showing that not only anti-administration Republican lawmakers aren't buying his increased spending bid but also an embarrassingly large chunk of his own (fellow) Democratic lawmakers in both House and Senate.

At this point it is doubtful that any stop-government threat would accomplish anything more than further arouse legislative ire.

After You, Alfonse —It could go on ad infinitum!

The filing of a dissenting opinion from majority decision is more the rule than the exception in appellate court decisions.

In other words, the disagreeing minority jurist explains why he did not agree with the majority decision—the dissenting opinion is filed and that's it.

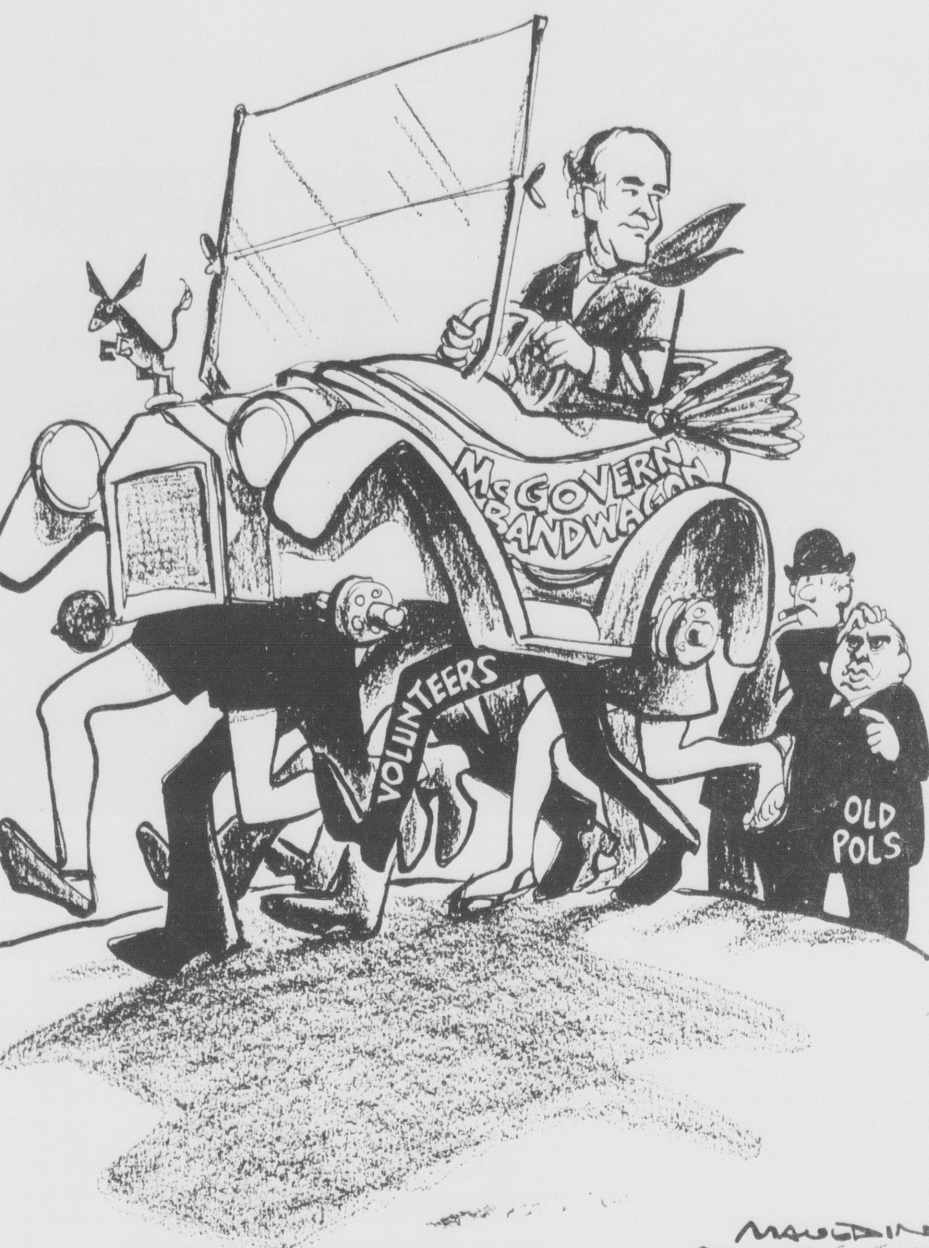

Now the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission has before it a dissenting opinion filed by Commissioner Carter in the case of the PUC decision in the South Pittsburgh Water Company case.

So far, so good—but egad, now the majority commissioners have filed a reply, a dissent, with Commissioner Carter's dissent.

This could go on forever. Commissioner Carter could file a dissenting opinion to the dissenting opinion filed by the majority to his original dissenting opinion, after which the majority commissioners could dissent to the Carter dissent to the majority dissent of the original Carter dissent—or did we lose a dissent in there?

Up, Up And Away—The rising cost of higher education in Pennsylvania is reflected in the increasingly larger amount of current-funds expenditures by Keystone State colleges and universities, which, according to the State Department of Education increased nearly ten percent from school year 1969-70 to 1970-71 to $1,295,749,619. Student tuition and fees account for nearly 43 per cent of all educational and general revenue.

Observer:

The McGovern Curse

By Russell Baker

WASHINGTON—Extracts from a political columnist's diary:

Jan. 3—Wrote a brilliant column today analyzing the components of Muskie's irresistible sweep toward the Democratic nomination—Muskie's tough, professional organization; his Lincolnesque image; support he is getting from the big-money crowd, etc. formidable though he is, as I noted in my column, Muskie cannot beat Nixon in November.

Jan. 17—I must record, dear diary, how pleased I am with the column I wrote today making sport of the clowns in futile support of Muskie for the Democratic nomination. Yorty, Chisholm, McGovern, Lindsay—hah!! I was devastatingly wicked in a most amusing way. Humphrey, of course, cannot be entirely dismissed with a joke, and I said as much. It's wise policy in the column game to leave yourself an "out," but Hubert's chances of overtaking Muskie look little better than ludicrous right now. In any case, what difference would it make? Neither one can beat Nixon in November.

Feb. 4—A rather poor column today, I'm afraid, diary, but don't blame me. Blame McGovern. I couldn't go through the entire primary season without writing about him at least once before he is eliminated. The poor chap! He takes himself seriously as a candidate. How depressing. Tomorrow I shall recover by writing an analysis explaining why Nixon cannot be beaten in November.

March 23—John Mitchell telephoned from the White House today to congratulate me on my column explaining the failure of Muskie's campaign and confided that the Democrats have nobody who can beat Nixon in November. Mitchell is right, of course. I must do a column soon pointing out that he is a political genius.

April 2—Today my column was daring and imaginative. I pronounced Hubert Humphrey the almost certain winner of the Democratic nomination, and explained why: big labor, the black vote and Mayor Daley will put him over. Moreover, now that McGovern is getting some public attention, the voters will see that his policies are much too radical and this will dispose of the poor devil. I needn't waste sympathy on him, I suppose, since no matter who is nominated, no one can beat Nixon in November.

April 19—I made a telling point against McGovern in today's column, pointing out that no one as far from the middle of the road as he is can possibly be nominated. Of course, Nixon has occupied the middle of the road so thoroughly that he is unbeatable in November.

May 8—McGovern simply won't do, and I said so in my column today.

May 13—In today's column, diary, I pointed out that McGovern hadn't a chance of being nominated because he sounded like Liberace, was going bald, and wouldn't have the slightest chance of beating Nixon in November.

May 16—I am rather proud of the felicitous way in which my column today noted that McGovern's refusal to move to the middle of the road made him "a Democratic Goldwater"—clever phrase, that—and that, as such a candidate would have no chance of winning in November, he was highly unlikely to get the nomination. Again, I warned the Democrats that no one could beat Nixon in November.

May 18—McGovern still won't do! My column today explained why with great persuasiveness and occasional wit.

May 30—I argued in today's column that the polls pointing to a McGovern victory over Humphrey in California simply proved how foolish the Democratic Party would be to let a state like California—where absolutely anything seems to go—dictate its choice of candidates. The Democrats need a moderate candidate to save others on the ticket from utter disaster in the inevitable Nixon victory in November. I suggested that the delegates look to Mayor Daley for counsel.

June 7—I was writing a column today explaining why President Nixon can't be beaten in November when John Mitchell rang me up to congratulate me on yesterday's column ("McGovern won't do!"). He asked what I was writing for my next column. I told him it would say that Nixon was unbeatable. He said that I was perfectly correct, but that he wished I would quit writing it for the rest of the year. Strange fellow! I must do a column soon on his extreme tendency to worry too much.

IRS

Questions & Answers

Q. My employer deposited agreed-upon wage increases held up by the freeze in an interest-bearing account until the question of retroactivity was decided by the Pay Board. Now that we're able to receive our retroactive pay, can we also receive the accrued interest on the wages?

A. Yes. Your employer may pay the accrued interest to his employees. The fund is similar to a "forced savings" program and interest in such a program accrues to and is payable to employees. In addition, the cost to the employer is not increased beyond the amount of the retroactive increase.

Q. Is there a booklet available that contains all the regulations issued under the stabilization program?

A. Yes. A new booklet, entitled "Title 6 — Economic Stabilization" of the code of Federal Regulations, is a handy reference for all aspects of the stabilization program. In addition to the regulations issued by the Cost of Living Council, the Pay Board and the Price Commission through Feb. 29, 1972, the volume contains implementing regulations and rulings of the Internal Revenue Service.

The booklet can be purchased for 75 cents from the Superintendent of Documents, the Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402, or from the Regional GPO Book Stores located in ten major cities throughout the country.

Nixon OKs Cool War

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON—Richard Nixon and Leonid Brezhnev reached a "tacit understanding" during their secret Kremlin conversations that the two superpowers will start to disengage from Vietnam.

The President came home from Moscow convinced that the Russians want to end the Vietnam War but don't want to appear less stalwart in their support of Hanoi than the Chinese.

The war has been a drain on the Russians who have been supplying North Vietnam with expensive military hardware. Out of the Moscow meeting, therefore, may come a reduction in both Soviet and American arms shipments to the rival Vietnams.

Both Nixon and Brezhnev expressed a willingness, if they didn't reach a precise agreement, to phase down military aid to the opposing sides. The subject is so delicate inside the Kremlin, however, that the President carefully refrained from discussing Vietnam in his TV report to the Soviet people.

He brought to Moscow with him background papers, which portray the Kremlin leaders as almost paranoid about the Chinese. In the early war years, the Soviets would have nothing to do with peace efforts, lest it confirm Chinese charges that they were soft on the war.

The secret papers prepared for Nixon tell how the Soviet government, in May 1965, refused even to deliver a peace message to the North Vietnamese. Lyndon Johnson merely wanted to notify Hanoi that he was ordering a bombing pause.

"I am not a postman," grumped Nikolai Firyubin, the Deputy Foreign Minister, when he was asked to relay the message. He suggested that the Americans find their "own ways of transmitting messages."

American Ambassador Foy Kohler, in a report to the State Department, blamed the incident upon "Soviet sensitivity" toward the Chinese Communists.

KOSYGIN'S PHONE TAPPED

Washington was surprised, therefore, to find Soviet Premier Aleksei Kosygin eager two years later to serve as an intermediary between the United States and North Vietnam. He made the offer in February 1967, during talks with British leaders in London.

His phone calls were intercepted and he was overheard reporting jubilantly to Brezhnev in Moscow: "There's a great possibility of achieving the aim, if the Vietnamese will understand the present situation that we have passed to them. They will have to decide."

The North Vietnamese, however, rejected the overtures. Afterward, Kosygin ruefully told American Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow that the role of the mediator was uncomfortable.

"They either complicated the problem," he said, "or pretended they were doing something when in fact they were not." Kosygin said his intervention in London had provoked "fury" in Peking but that the Chinese had been the winners in the end when his efforts failed.

Then he asked Thompson suspiciously whether "the Chinese had approached the US (about the) possibility of negotiations on Vietnam. The ambassador conjectured afterward that Kosygin may have thought the Chinese encouraged the United States to start negotiations, knowing they would fail and thus embarrass the Soviet Union.

KOSYGIN IN HANOI

Yet in a fascinating aside, Kosygin recalled that he personally had been in Hanoi when the United States began bombing North Vietnam.

"Why did not the U.S. turn to him at that time and explain to him its problems?" he asked the American ambassador. Kosygin didn't say, however, what he would have done.

In view of this background, Nixon handled the Chinese angle delicately in his talks with Brezhnev. No transcript was made except for the President's personal notes. However, he told aides afterward that the Vietnam discussions had been "intent" but "productive." Both the United States and Russia, he said, will begin backing away from the war.

The President, incidentally, was wary about his own credibility with Peking. He instructed his subordinates not to say anything to their Soviet counterparts that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai couldn't read. In other words, he didn't want U.S. negotiators telling the Soviets one thing and the Chinese another.

NADER'S PREMONITION

Only hours before an Air Force precision flyer died in a crash at the Transpo '72 show, consumer advocate Ralph Nader had begged Transportation Secretary John Volpe to call off the midair stunts.

Nader had decided to go directly to Volpe after the death of a 30-year-old crop duster who collided in an air race and an Australian air acrobat who was thrown from his huge kite.

These and several narrow escapes at the big transportation show had convinced Nader that the air exhibits were telling the public more about the horrors of transportation than its benefits.

Last Saturday, after the crop duster's death, Nader sent a telegram to Volpe urging him to call off the stunts. But, on an impulse, he decided to try to contact Volpe directly with a plea to end Sunday's busy schedule.

At 7 p.m., he reached Volpe's special assistant, Joe Bosco, who was impressed with Nader's urgent tone. Bosco located Volpe and passed on to him the consumer advocate's strange premonition.

Volpe told Bosco to get in touch with Transpo's general director, William Bird, and to advise him to weigh Nader's warning but to make up his own mind. Bird quickly decided the show must go on—and 21 hours after Nader's warning, the Air Force flyer plunged to his death.

McGovern's Gains Due To Independent Support

By GEORGE GALLUP

Field Enterprises, Inc.

PRINCETON, N.J. — In the period of just two months, McGovern has achieved a rise in popularity comparable to the remarkable performance of Republican Wendell Willkie in 1940, who came from nowhere that year to vie with Thomas Dewey as the top choice of Republican voters for the nomination on the eve of the convention.

An analysis of the trend in McGovern's support reveals the following:

1. The party faithful. In early spring McGovern had the support of only five per cent of Democrats nationwide, as determined by a national survey in which Democrats were asked to give their top choice from a list of leading presidential possibilities. In the latest national survey, conducted in late May, prior to the California primary, he is in a virtual three-way tie with his leading rivals. He wins the vote of 25 per cent of Democrats to 26 per cent for Humphrey and 26 per cent for Wallace.

The previous survey showed Humphrey with a wide lead, winning the vote of 35 per cent of Democrats nationwide, to 20 per cent for McGovern and 18 per cent for Wallace.

2. Independent voters. McGovern has consistently been stronger among voters who classify themselves as Independents than among Democrats. Even during the early period of the primaries, McGovern ran virtually even with Humphrey among this group. Following the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania primaries, however, McGovern recorded a surge of popularity with Independents—from 18 per cent to 26 per cent.

This sharp upturn for McGovern among Independents occurred roughly one month after a similar jump among Democrats—from 5 per cent to 17 per cent following the Wisconsin primary.

3. Better-educated, higher-income voters. McGovern holds an advantage over Humphrey and Wallace in that, among both Democrats and Independent, he appeals far more to college-educated and higher income persons. These groups vote in greater proportions in the primaries and work harder to get supporters to the polls. Among Democrats and Independents with a college background, for example, McGovern is preferred over Humphrey by a 3-to-1 margin.

McGovern Leads HHH By Seven Points

When the choices of Democrats and Independents in the latest survey are combined, McGovern emerges ahead of Humphrey for the first time. He leads Humphrey by the margin of seven percentage points, 26 per cent to 19 per cent.

Wallace, however, is ahead of both men, winning the support of 31 per cent of Democrats and Independents combined.

A total of 661 Democrats and 489 Independents, out of a total sample of 1540 adults, 18 and older, were interviewed in person in the latest survey which was conducted May 26 to May 29. This question was asked:

Here is a list of people who have been mentioned as possible presidential candidates for the Democratic party in 1972. Which ONE would you like to see nominated as the Democratic candidate for President in 1972?

The following tables show the trend in support for Humphrey, McGovern and Wallace among Independents and Democrats. Both survey dates and primary are given:

Trial Heats Show McGovern's Strength with Independents

McGovern's greater appeal than Humphrey with Independents is seen not only in his support among this group for the nomination, but in test races against President Nixon and Governor Wallace.

A survey completed in early May is consistent with earlier findings which show McGovern much stronger than Humphrey with Independents in these trial heats. The early May survey showed McGovern winning the support of 31 per cent of Independent voters, when matched against Nixon and Wallace, compared to 18 per cent for Humphrey.

Wallace Leads Among Independent Voters

Surveys taken before and after the May 15 attempt on the life of Gov. George Wallace of Alabama strongly suggest the presence of a "sympathy vote." Ahead of Humphrey but behind McGovern with Independents in early May, Wallace spurted to a clear lead over both of his leading rivals among this group of voters in the latest, pre-California survey. He is the choice of 37 per cent of Independents in this survey, to 25 per cent for McGovern and 19 per cent for Humphrey.

Wallace has also registered gains among Democrats during this same period of time, going from 18 per cent in early May to 26 per cent in the latest survey, and is now in a virtual tie with Humphrey and McGovern.

A national survey now underway will determine what changes have occurred in the nationwide candidate standings since the California primary.

YMCA Indian Guides Open Oklahoma Museum

The national Y-Indian Guide program which has six tribes with 102 members in the Warren YMCA, now has a national Y-Indian Guide Museum. Just dedicated the impressive red rock museum is at Woolaroc, near Bartlesville, Okla. in the heart of what was Indian territory.

Jack Hampson, YMCA executive director, predicted that hundreds of Y-Indian Guides from Pennsylvania, as well as Y members and others will visit the museum each year. "It will help immensely our efforts to understand the Indian culture, more important than ever, as we try to get closer to today's Indians and their problems," Hampson said.

The museum, part of Woolaroc, a long-established wild life preserve featuring a herd of 600 buffalo, antelope and other wild animals, as well as nature trails, Indian museum and other Indian attractions, often draws between 4,000 and 5,000 visitors a day during the 365 days it is open.

The Y-Indian Guide Museum with authentic Indian Artifacts given by 30 Indian tribes, with more in the offing, a 200-seat auditorium with a multimedia show of Indian history and other features, will be a special attraction at Woolaroc for the half-million members of the Y-Indian Guide program.

Rally Try Fizzles In Slow Trading

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market suffered its fourth straight setback Thursday after a rally attempt fizzled. Trading was slow.

Analysts said the market's inability to sustain the rally had triggered more sales. Prices continued to be depressed by concern about the economic proposals advanced by South Dakota Sen. George McGovern in his bid for the Democratic presidential nomination, analysts added.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had been up nearly 5 points earlier, finished off 2.78 at 941.30. The latest drop in the blue-chip indicator brought its total loss so far this week to some 20 points.

Declines on the New York Stock Exchange led advances by 3 to 2 at the close, although they had trailed the gainers for most of the session.

Losses ran through motors, mail order retail, electronics and rails. Farm implements and building materials were higher. All other groups were mixed.

Big Board turnover fell to 13.82 million shares from 15.23 million Wednesday. On the American Stock Exchange, volume rose to 4.33 million shares from 3.99 million Wednesday.

The most-active issue was Levitz Furniture, off 2 1/8 at 38 3/4. The stock closed off 6 Wednesday, the day after the company announced the resignation of its president, Leon J. Levitz. Last week the Securities and Exchange Commission accused the company of violating federal securities laws.

Of the 1,730 issues traded on the Big Board, 801 declines and 541 advanced. New yearly lows were reached by 97 issues and highs by 23. Of the 1,190 issues traded on the American Stock Exchange, 556 declined, and 340 advanced.

The New York Stock Exchange index of some 1,300 common stocks declined 0.18 to 59.63. The American Stock Exchange index slipped .05 to 27.51. The Associated Press 30-stock average was off 1.4 at 326.3. Industrials were off 1.8, rails were off 1.1 and utilities were off .5.

The number of blocks of 10,000 shares or more traded on the Big Board dropped to 102 from a revised total of 113 Wednesday.

The largest bloc was 95,300 shares of Chase Manhattan Corp., which traded at 57 3/4, unchanged.

On the Over-the-Counter market, the NASDAQ composite index rose 0.07 to 131.07.

Burglar Foiled, Couldn't Slip Down Chimney

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. — A 19-year-old Jamestown youth who was found stuck in the chimney of Chautauqua Provisions, Inc., 101 E. First st., at 2:38 a.m. Wednesday, was charged with a Class D felony in city court and is being held pending bail notice to the district attorney.

Philip Quinones, of 918 W. Tenth st., was found in the chimney by Officers Ronald Cotten and Christy Baglia Jr. after a caller identifying himself as "Jesse James" told police Quinones was stuck.

After spending some time trying to remove the youth without success, the officers called the fire department who broke the chimney apart.

Quinones is charged with burglary in the third degree and his case was referred to the public defender with all rights reserved by Judge Lester W. Berglund.

Erie Newspaper Guild Signs New Agreement

ERIE — The Times Publishing Company and Local 187 of the Newspaper Guild have agreed on a two and one-half year contract that will see the top minimum salaries in key positions to go to $250 in September 1973.

Negotiators arrived at the settlement late Wednesday following a six-hour meeting in the office of federal mediator Pat Mingarello.

Bargaining has been under way since June 1971. The old contract expired Sept. 1, 1971.

Odd Celebration

Costs Man $61

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A celebration of the birth of his child has cost a suburban Wilkesburg man fines and court fees totaling $61, police report.

Authorities said Lawrence W. Sipes' celebration was too exuberant and also illegal. Sipes was arrested for sounding a false fire alarm May 30.

A management spokesman explained that the package calls for a $20 first-year hike for reporters, ad salesmen, photographers and others in key categories. The second year will bring a $17 raise - $10 in the first six months and another $7 in the final six months. A final increase of $11.50 will carry the contract through to March 1, 1974.

The total cash settlement amounts of $48.50.

In addition, fringe benefits, including vacations, health insurance and upgrading of some positions were agreed upon.

Newspaper employees are tentatively scheduled to meet Sunday to ratify the terms, which will then go to the Internal Revenue Service for Pay Board review.

Joining An H.M.O.

By Sylvia Porter

(Last in a series of four columns)

The HMO — the medical group offering you a wide range of health services in return for a flat annual fee — is definitely the trend today. Dozens are already in operation; many more are in the planning or development stages.

Let's say, therefore, that a local medical group, hospital, university or other organization is setting up an HMO. Or the Blue Cross plan to which you subscribe is offering an HMO-type plan as an alternative to your regular coverage.

Costs and coverages vary all over the place — but costs easily can run $400 to $600 or more a year for a family. Should YOU join an HMO under these circumstances? How can you tell whether or not it is a bargain for you? Here's your guide:

+Read with utmost care all the literature on the plan, what's covered and not, how long the coverage lasts for, say, hospitalization, psychotherapy.

+Check the monthly premiums and the extra costs you'll be required to pay for non-included items, deductibles, etc. Often excluded or included only at extra cost are blood, dental care, eyeglasses and hearing aids, maternity care, psychotherapy, out-of-hospital drugs, cosmetic surgery.

+Compare these totals with the amounts you've been paying in health insurance premiums, doctor bills, out-of-pocket cash, costs of services not covered or only partially covered in your present insurance.

+Find out the arrangements for choosing a physician. Can you keep your own or must you choose one employed by the plan? If the latter, what happens if you don't like the physician? How do you switch? Will the physician attend to you on a continuing basis?

+Investigate the provisions for prescription drugs outside the hospital. Does the plan cover these or offer a way you can save when you buy? (Some HMOs have their own pharmacies.) And what about prosthetics and appliances?

+Check other subscribers' opinions. If they are already in a plan, are they satisfied with the medical attention?

+Find out what hours full HMO services are available and if there is a procedure for care in evenings and over weekends.

+Ask whether the outpatient services and facilities you use most — physicians' offices, lab facilities, pharmacy — are under a single roof. Is this roof convenient for your family?

+Make sure preventive care services are stressed — early disease detection via diagnostic screening, periodic physical checkups, appropriate immunization.

+Investigate what hospital accommodations are provided — ward, private, semiprivate? Are such extras as special duty nursing and private room included if your physician thinks they are essential?

+Are there age limits in the plan — such as age 65 or when a son or daughter reaches age 19? Or marriages?

+What medical facilities are included in the hospital to which you would go — such as coronary care, radiation therapy? What exclusions, if any, are there for health handicaps?

Here is a checklist of services an HMO might or might not offer. Use it to judge the comprehensiveness of a plan, but also weigh it against your own list of health priorities:

OUTPATIENT SERVICES: Ranging from doctor office and hospital visits, eye exams and X-ray services to treatment for allergies, injections, counseling services and medicines.

IN-HOSPITAL SERVICES: From physicians', surgeons' and specialists' services to special duty nursing and blood transfusions.

HOME SERVICES: From doctors' home visits within a specified radius of hospital to home health care and housekeeping help.

MATERNITY CARE AND FAMILY PLANNING: From pre-natal care to contraception and care of a well baby.

MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES: From a specified number of psychotherapy sessions to in-hospital services and nursing care.

EXTENDED CARE: Room, board and medical care in an extended care facility or nursing home.

EMERGENCY CARE: During regularly scheduled hours, after scheduled hours, ambulance service.

CARE IN NON-PLAN AFFILIATED HOSPITALS: Physicians' emergency care, including surgery, and hospitalization.

DENTAL CARE: From routine work to dentures and surgery.

REHABILITATION: From home visits by therapists to special corrective appliances and special therapy facilities.

The Energy Crisis is threatening your way of life!

It's a proven fact that America is in the beginning stages of an energy crisis . . . at a time when it must have abundant supplies of clean energy to protect both its economy and its environment.

The growing shortage of all forms of energy is the most serious problem confronting our nation today. Without adequate supplies of energy, there is no way to solve many of our other major problems.

Let's face the facts, before the energy crisis turns into a disaster:

1. The welfare of the nation and its citizens is directly dependent upon an adequate availability of energy fuels. With only six percent of the world's population, America uses one-third of the world's energy.

2. The nation is in the beginning stage of an energy crisis due to increasing shortages of all forms of energy. Natural gas, which supplies one-third of U.S. energy needs, is already unable to meet current demands.

3. The situation is getting worse every day and unless the public recognizes the problem and urges government to cooperate with industry for an early solution, disaster could strike as early as the winter of 1973-74. Industries could shut down because of lack of energy, resulting in great unemployment. Homes and commercial establishments could be without enough energy for their daily needs.

4. The day of low cost energy is past. The prices of all forms of energy must increase sharply if the nation is to have the supplies it needs. Congress, the Administration and the public must be prepared for these higher energy costs, and greater efforts must be exerted to conserve energy by stopping wasteful practices.

These facts are evident from an abundance of studies and official energy reports. They lead to the inescapable conclusion that early development of adequate supplies of energy must have the highest priority among our national goals.

The present-day America of 200 million people would be crippled without continuous development of new energy sources.

Energy needs have doubled since 1950, and are projected to double again by 1985 and triple by the end of the century, according to a government forecast.

While the shortage is becoming dramatically clear as to natural gas, it is by no means limited to natural gas.

—Oil which in 1971 supplied 44% of the nation's energy needs is also in short supply. The nation is increasingly dependent on foreign oil imports, with all their related uncertainties.

—Coal in 1971 supplied 18% of our energy needs. While the nation has substantial reserves, environmental requirements limit their utilization. Substantial research and development programs are needed to develop new technology to make these vast reserves available, such as coal gasification, and programs to remove pollutants so coal can be used directly. Such projects are long-term, so coal cannot be counted on as an immediate or short-term alternative to other energy fuels.

—Hydropower provided about 4% of energy needs in 1971 and is being counted on to supply an even smaller portion of total energy needs in the future.

—Nuclear energy, which in 1971 provided less than 1% of our energy needs, is being counted on to provide a substantial portion of the nation's future energy needs, but not to a significant degree before 1985. It is far behind schedule and more costly than expected because of environmental delays.

Electric power, demand for which has doubled in the past ten years, is directly dependent upon adequate supplies of the primary energy sources discussed above. Thus the decreasing availability of sufficient quantities of primary energy substantially increases the probability of electric brownouts and blackouts.

You owe it to yourself and your community to become more informed about the grave national energy situation. Write for a free copy of the brochure we have prepared which presents the facts of the energy crisis together with the details of the Action Program Columbia Gas has developed to help correct this crisis. Congress and the Administration have been informed of our Action Program.

What can you do?

Raise your voice. Your government and elected officials are sensitive and responsive to your needs, when you make them known.

Write to your Senators and Representative. Tell them of your concern about the energy crisis. Urge them to act quickly to prevent it from becoming a national disaster.

New Process Bumped, 2-1

Chimenti's Wins With 7th Inning Run

Chimenti's pushed across a run in the seventh inning Thursday to end a defensive struggle and nip New Process in Rec League action, 2-1.

In other games, the Try-M Seven-Percenter continued on their merry way towards a showdown with the Pennsylvania Bank & Trust with a 9-1 thumping of the Sheffield Sport Boosters. The Bankers, meanwhile, were rapping the Times-Mirror & Observer 18-1.

Cole's Motel ripped out 14 hits, but Connolly's did a little better, and kept the Innkeepers winless, 23-4. In Sheffield, Penn Beer slammed the door on the Mini Mart, 10-4.

Larry Bearfield opened the bottom of the second inning with a single for Chimenti's, and came all the way around to score as Steve Massa followed with a double, the only extra base hit in the game for either team.

Ralph Lee then locked in a pitching duel with his counterpart, New Process' Dan Honhart, through the next four innings and Chimenti's carried a precarious 1-0 lead into the seventh inning.

Process came up with the tying run as Dick Kane slapped a single, and moved up a base on a steal. Kane advanced to third on a pass ball, and came in to score on an error.

Bearfield had a hand in Chimenti's winning tally—lashing a single and moving over to third on two sacrifices. Following awalk to Craig Briggs, Jim Davis poked a shot through the infield to drive Bearfield home.

Sheffield Sport Boosters collected twice as many hits as Try-M—12 to 6—but the Seven-Percenter made theirs count more, scoring four times in the third inning and five more times in the fifth to coast in for a 9-1 victory.

Eli Fehlman, meanwhile was keeping the Boosters' bats under control until the seventh, when their lone run scored.

Big blow of the contest was a grand slam home run by Roy Swanson in the fifth, driving in Fehlman, Bill Grove and Jim Fehlman, who all had contributed singles.

Pennsylvania Bank & Trust tallied six times in each of the first three innings to put its game with the Newsmen safely out of reach. In the first, Jack Karkosky singled in Larry Campbell, who had walked and advanced to second on a fly-out. Three more runs crossed the plate on RBIs by Bob Haden and Chick Stewart before Jack Lobdell lifted a two-run homer.

Connolly's scored in each inning, except the fifth and trounced Cole's Motel, banging out 28 hits. Barry Seastead cleared the fences for the winners. The Distributors pushed home five runs in the first, a pair in the second, seven in the third, a single run in the fourth, and a big eight in their last at-bats in the sixth.

Terry Rossman received credit to for the win, giving up 14 hits, while Dunn was charged with the loss.

A big fifth inning broke open a close game between Penn Beer and Mini-Mart and sent Penn on its way to a 10-4 win.

Roger Colvin, Jim Dahler and Craig Burns accounted for the runs in the fifth. Don Watts, who crossed the plate more than once, had three hits on the evening.

Bowa Drives In 3 Runs As Phils Top Houston

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Larry Bowa drove in three runs and Tommy Hutton added two with a home run to lead the Philadelphia Phillies to a 7-2 victory over the Houston Astros Thursday night.

Billy Champion, 4-3, had checked the Astros on just one hit — Bob Watson's single in the fifth — and carried a 4-0 lead into the seventh inning.

But when Cesar Cedeno tripled and Lee May and Watson singled Joe Hoerner came on to set down the next three batters and preserve the victory.

It was the Phils' second in a row — the first time they have put two triumphs together in more than a month.

Hutton's double and Bowa's triple gave them a run in the second inning and they scored two more in the fourth on singles by Greg Luzinski, Hutton and Don Money. Tim McCarver's sacrifice fly and Bowa's single.

The fading New York Mets are struggling to maintain their slight lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates. After two consecutive losses to the Reds, the Mets will try their luck against the Houston Astros this evening at 8:00. A half hour later the New York Yankees will take on the Kansas City Royals. WPIX carries the Yankee broadcast, while WOR-TV will air the Mets.

Braves Upend Expos

MONTREAL (AP) — Felix Millan drilled a tie-breaking double in the fifth inning, then scored what proved to be the winning run on Darrell Evans' sacrifice fly as the Atlanta Braves edged Montreal 3-2 Thursday night.

Rico Carty gave the Braves a 1-0 lead in the fourth inning with his fifth home run of the season but the Expos tied it in the bottom of the fourth as Mike Jorgensen walked, stole second and came home on Ron Fairly's single.

Looks Ahead To Wimbledon

MIAMI (AP) — Tennis sensation Chris Evert headed Thursday for three weeks in England where the teen-age sports heroine will shoot for Wimbledon and Wightman Cup glory.

"It's the biggest month of my life," said the cute, 17-year-old high school junior. "I've been dreaming about Wimbledon ever since Forest Hills last year."

Miss Evert rocketed into the tennis spotlight 10 months ago by reaching the semifinals at Forest Hills, N.Y., and has since beaten the world's top players in head-to-head matches.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co. was given another flat rejection Thursday of its bid to stretch the normal 8 to 11 p.m. network prime time limit half an hour for Olympic game coverage on weeknights Aug. 26 to Sept. 10.

The Federal Communications Commission said "it does not appear" that it is necessary to permit ABC to start prime time broadcasting at 7:30 p.m. for "adequate coverage of the game."

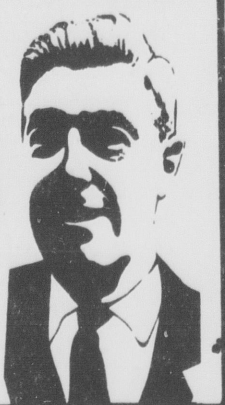

The FCC said it is sympathetic to ABC's problem that without the extra time its losses on Olympic game coverage will be raised to $1.1 million in view of the evaluation of the West German deuschnark last fall.

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — "We are willing to take a slight risk to get Tony's bat into the lineup," Minnesota Twin president Calvin Griffith said as he announced that defending American League batting champion Tony Oliva will be activated Friday despite a painful knee.

POLITICS PRODUCES AN ODD COUPLE

(c) 1972 New York Times News Service
NEW YORK — When Johnny Blood was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame as a charter member in 1963, this somewhat legendary and totally implausible character was ceremoniously presented to the Canton shrine by that model of propriety, Byron (Whizzer) White. They were an odd couple then and they still are.

During his 15 years in the National Football League, most of them with the Green Bay Packers, the colorful Blood lit up the skies with his spectacular play. He was known as the Vagabond Halfback and the Magnificent Screwball. He also lit up a lot of nocturnal skies off the field. Tall, dark and handsome with a personality to match, he was such an irresistible swashbuckler that he would have made Joe Namath look like a choir boy.

Although the Whizzer's lifestyle was diametrically opposite to that of Blood, there were bonds that have held them together. Johnny was in his second year as playing coach of Pittsburgh in 1938 when White joined the club in a rookie season of such splendor that he was the leading ground gainer in the league.

Despite that promising start, the Whizzer let himself be diverted to Oxford on a Rhodes Scholarship. Returning to pro football in 1940—this time with the Detroit Lions—he again was the leading ground gainer. But he was using Pro ball to finance his way through Yale Law School. Naturally, he graduated first in his class and a great career on the gridiron was abandoned. What did it get him? Only a place on the United States Supreme Court.

The electrifying Blood came breezing into town today to do some unauthorized shilling for Justice White as the Democratic candidate for president. Neither dismayed nor deterred by the fact that Sen. George McGovern seems to have a lock on the nomination, the old smoothie from Green Bay wants to be ready to spring his boy as a solution to all difficulties if the convention should become deadlocked.

"The dark horse is White," says Johnny, eyes twinkling and the charm turned on full blast. "Delegates can unite around my guy. He leaves them nothing to shoot at. Everything he has done in his life he has done superlatively well. The standard quality of the man is his balance. He has shown it in every department—psychologically, socially, physically. In every field he's tried he led the league, athletically, scholastically and everywhere else."

"As a football player he was a slashing runner who won the ground gaining championship with very little help from the rest of us. We were a bad team, winning only two games and that is deeply significant. Beattie Feathers of the Chicago Bears holds ground gaining records that still stand but he did it because he had Bronko Nagurski blocking for him and the Bronk opened up holes like a tank flattening out a wheatfield. The Whizzer had no Bronk to help. He did it alone."

"When he joined our Pittsburgh team, Art Rooney was paying him a salary of $15,000 and that was as fantastic as the $100,000 paid out today. Know how much I was making? My salary was $3,500 and I was both coach and player. That was when I first developed my administration for the Whizzer. So a group of fellow admirers banded together to seek his nomination for the presidency, if not this year at least in 1976. We haven't sounded him out or spoken to him. But he is so responsive to the call of duty that he would regard a draft as such a call."

If Johnny's self-imposed assignment seems slightly impossible, that's down his alley. He was the clutch player supreme, losing interest in lopsided games but making the impossible catch or the impossible run in the closing minutes of the squeaker. He just had a flair for it and the bizarre was his particular dish.

His name wasn't Blood, you know, even if he once signed a contract by using his own blood instead of ink.

His name was McNally and, fortunately for him, his family was wealthy. He was thrown out of Notre Dame for going off with a girl on a motorcycle escapade on St. Patrick's day, a day that invariably got him into trouble. While an undergraduate at St. John's College in Minnesota later on he needed a nom de plume for a venture with the pros. He saw a theater marquee advertising Rudolf Valentino in "Blood and Sand." He took Blood and gave the more prosaic sand to his companion.

Although Johnny didn't get around to qualifying for his degree until 26 years after his original class graduated, he was a brilliant student. He edited the school paper, with the top debater and star of the drama club. In later years he once got entangled with John Barrymore in a saloon discussion and they matched Shakespearean quotes until dawn. Oh, yes. He also wrote a book on the Malthusian theory of economics.

Presumably the Whizzer is uneasy at Johnny's enthusiastic campaign in his behalf. If White doesn't want the nomination, he can take comfort in the way John Blood McNally once ran his own campaign for the office of sheriff. Asked what his platform was, the impish Blood destroyed everything.

"Honest wrestling," he said.

Top Shot Putters Collide In LA's Vons Trace Classic

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The world's three greatest shot putters collide for the first time, Tom Von Ruden gets another crack at Jim Ryun at one mile and Rodney Milburn gets his stiffest test in years at the Vons Trace Classic in the Los Angeles Coliseum.

With an event card that may be second only to the Olympic Trials, the Vons meet brings together talent Friday night in a number of head-to-head confrontations for which track fans drool.

Al Feuerbach, 1972's surprise because of his 70 feet 3/4 inch shot put, meets world record holder Randy Matson and the world's only other 70-footer, George Woods. All three say they have to do well in this meet to gain a psychological edge before the Olympic Trials later this month. The trio has never before competed on the same field.

"There are at least four or five guys capable of breaking my world record," said Matson of his 71-5/2 mark set in 1967.

Elimination Of Weak Teams Might Help Strengthen ABA

NEW YORK (AP) — The weak branches in the American Basketball Association may find out next week that the league's stabilization committee does its work with a pruning saw.

A source within the league told The Associated Press that Memphis possibly and Pittsburgh and Florida probably will be lopped off.

The ABA, whose whole future is subject to multiple kinds of speculation will begin a two-day meeting here Monday. Its stabilization committee, headed by Richard P. Tinkham, executive vice president and secretary of the Indiana Pacers, has been studying the financially weak franchises in Memphis, Pittsburgh and Florida.

"I think what the ABA wants is to have only strong teams in the league," a source told The Associated Press. "It doesn't want teams that won't hold up their end."

"There is a possibility that they will try and save the Memphis franchise because Memphis has a good sports building. I think they will come up with the proper ownership for Memphis."

"I have my doubts about Pittsburgh and Florida," he continued. "There probably will be some bids, but whether they will be approved by the league is questionable."

The Floridians, in their fourth season in the five-year-old league, drew only 87,000 home fans last season, an average of about 2,000 per game. Pittsburgh, also in its fourth season, announced a home attendance of about 89,000 and Memphis drew approximately 130,000.

Cards Deal Giants 6th Straight Loss

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Donn Clendenon's two-run homer in the top of the eighth broke a 4-4 tie and the St. Louis Cardinals beat San Francisco 6-4 Thursday, handing the Giants their sixth straight loss.

Clendenon's blast, his second of the year, came off Don McDowell, who had replaced starter Sam McDowell, lifted after catcher Ted Simmons' eighth-inning triple. Simmons drove in three runs, knotting the score.

Earlier, McDowell had coasted along on six hits and given the Giants a 4-1 lead when his triple had driven in a pair of runs in the sixth inning.

Chris Speier's single scored Bobby Bonds in the first inning to give the Giants a 1-0 lead. San Francisco increased its margin to 2-0 in the third inning when Bonds scored from third on a wild pitch.

The Cards scored in the fourth on three consecutive singles.

Veteran right-hander Diego Segui, 1-0, registered his first National League victory in relief after joining the Cards Wednesday. He was 0-1 with the American League's Oakland A's.

Since Commissioner Jack Dolph announced his resignation June 2, there have been various published reports, rumors and speculation concerning the league's future. Dolph's resignation is effective Oct. 1, when his contract expires.

Among the possibilities mentioned have been:

—The ABA disbanding at its meetings Monday and Tuesday.

—The rival National Basketball Association picking up the financially strongest ABA teams if the younger league disbands.

—The ABA dropping some—possible three—teams and becoming an eight-team league next season.

—The ABA trying to find buyers for the Pittsburgh, Florida and Memphis franchises and possibly trying to move them to other cities.

—Putting the Denver franchise in limbo until a new arena can be built.

—And the long-standing talk of merger with the older league.

Dolph, in his resignation announcement, said, "I believe that a merger between the two leagues is only a matter of time and Walter Kennedy will be commissioner of the single expanded league. It therefore behooves me to look to my own future and certain opportunities that are available at the present time."

There were, however, indications that Dolph was fired, or at least resigned under pressure.

"It was generally assumed that his contract was not going to be renewed," a source told The AP. "His announcement apparently was some kind of face saving gesture."

3-Way Duel Shaping Up For Running Of Belmont

NEW YORK (AP) — Ruritania will try to do for Greentree Stable what Stage Door Johnny did in 1968—win the Belmont Stakes—but it will take luck, assistant trainer John Gaver Jr. said Thursday.

"If we win the Belmont, we will be lucky," said Gaver who assists his father as conditioner of Greentree horses.

"Stage Door Johnny would have been a great horse," said young Gaver. "Ruritania won't be."

Stage Door Johnny, unraced at 2, lost his 3-year-old debut and then won his next five races before being retired because of an injury. His last three victories were in the Belmont, Withers and Saranac.

Ruritania will go into Saturday's Belmont at Belmont Park with one win in seven starts as a 2-year-old and two victories and two seconds in five outings this year. In his only stakes race, the Withers May 31, he finished fifth.

Ruritania figures to be an outsider in a field that should include Meadow Stable's Riva Ridge, winner of the Kentucky Derby and more than $70,000 and the fourth-place finisher in the Preakness, and Paul Mellon's Key To The Mint, third in the Preakness and winner of the Withers.

Post time for the $125,000-added, 1 1/2-mile Belmont, last and longest of the Triple Crown races which also include the Derby and Preakness, is scheduled for 5:35 p.m., EDT.

Television coverage will be from 5-6 p.m. and radio coverage from 5:25-5:45 p.m., both by CBS.

A colt given a good chance to ruin the expected duel between Riva Ridge and Key To The Mint is Mr. and Mrs. F. William Arder's improving Smiling Jack.

NEW YORK (AP) — Probable starters for Saturday's $125,000-added Belmont Stakes at Belmont Park Saturday at 1 1/2 miles, all to carry 126 pounds, with owner, trainer, jockey and probable odds:

a Riva Ridge, Meadow Stable, Lucien Laurin, Ron Turcotte, 2-1.

a Upper Case, Meadow Stable, Lucien Laurin, indefinite, 2-1.

a Spanish Riddle, R. E. Anderson, Lucien Laurin, Paul Feliciano, 2-1.

NHL Adds Washington, Kansas City Franchises

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hockey League moved two steps closer Thursday to its goal of 24 teams by the end of this decade, granting expansion franchises to Kansas City, Kan., and Washington, D.C. for the 1974-75 season.

Then, the New York Islanders and Atlanta Flames, who start play in the NHL for the first time next season, picked the two choicest plums in the draft of eligible junior players.

The Islanders, choosing first, selected Billy Harris of the Toronto Marlboros and then Atlanta chose Jacques Richard of the Quebec Remparts.

Harris, a right winger, tied for the Ontario Hockey Association's scoring championship with 57 goals, 72 assists and 129 points. Richard, a center, led all the scorers in the Quebec Junior Hockey Association with 71-89-160.

Harris said he had been contacted by both Bill Torrey, general manager of the Islanders, and the rival World Hockey Association. "It's all a matter of money," he said. "I'd sign for $2,000 less with an NHL club, but if the WHA offered $25,000 or $50,000 more I'd go with them."

Earlier, in the day, the NHL Board of Governors settled its own matter of money, admitting two new members at a cost of $6 million each.

The governors granted the Kansas City, Kan. franchise to a group of 14 investors headed by Edwin G. Thompson and including Jeff Jennings, 26-year-old son of New York Ranger President Bill Jennings.

The Washington, D.C. franchise went to Abe Pollin, owner of the Baltimore Bullets of the National Basketball Association.

Clarence Campbell, president of the NHL, said it took the governors four ballots to get the required three-quarter vote for acceptance.

Eliminated in the bidding were two other groups representing Kansas City and the cities of Dallas, Cincinnati, Indianapolis, Phoenix, San Diego and Cleveland.

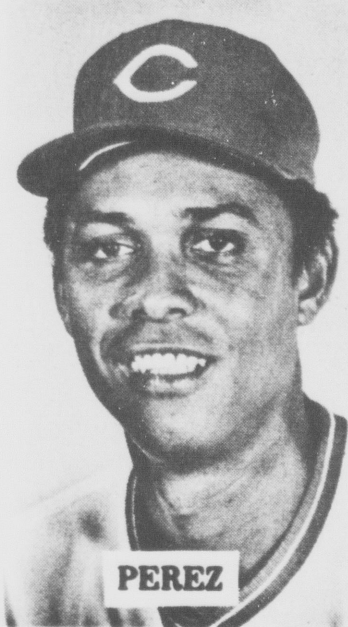

Campbell made it clear that the cities eliminated Thursday remained very much in the expansion picture and that the governors would discuss additional franchises in August, as they continue their goal of 24 clubs before 1980.

Thompson said the Kansas City team would play in suburban Johnson County in a municipal building scheduled for completion by the spring of 1974.

Pollin plans to have his Washington team play in the proposed Eisenhower Center Arena scheduled to be constructed in the downtown area. If the Eisenhower Center cannot be finished by September, 1974 Pollin said he planned to construct his own building in suburban Largo, Md.

Reds Unleash Early Assault

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Hagie belted a two-run homer that capped a four-run first inning against New York ace Tom Seaver, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 5-3 victory over the Mets Thursday.

Seaver, 8-3 was staggered by the early and failed to pitch a complete game for the eighth straight time.

Pete Rose, who opened the game with a single and went to third on Joe Morgan's base hit, came home with Cincinnati's first run on Johnny Bench's sacrifice fly, his 38th RBI of the year.

Tony Perez then delivered a run-scoring single before Hagie unloaded his seventh home run of the year.

The Mets came back with a run in their half of the first on Cleon Jones' RBI single and cut the margin to 4-3 with a two-run rally in the fifth before Pedro Borbon came on to shut the door.

Wednesday Night

Bucs Top Padres

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Gene Alley drew a bases-loaded walk in the 18th inning to break a scoreless deadlock and carry Pittsburgh to a 1-0 victory over the San Diego Padres for a sweep of their Wednesday two-night doubleheader.

Al Oliver opened the 18th inning of the nightcap by beating out a chopper to loser Mike Corkins, 0-2, and Stargell followed with a single down the third base line.

Richie Hebner struck out swinging but, on the pitch, Oliver and Stargell pulled a double steal.

Indy Winner Donohue Set For Can-Am Series

MOSPORT PARK, Ont. (AP) — Newcomer Mark Donohue will challenge veterans Peter Revson and Denis Hulme Sunday in the season's opener of the Canadian-American Challenge Cup series for unlimited sportscar racing.

Joining Donohue, winner of the Indianapolis 500; Revson, the 1971 Can-Am champion who also is a veteran Indy driver, and Hulme, Can-Am runner-up last year, will be Jackie Oliver and David Hobbs.

Revson won the Can-Am title for the British-based Team McLaren in 1971, but moved over to McLaren's Formula 1 aggregation this year to make room for world driving champ Jackie Stewart of Scotland.

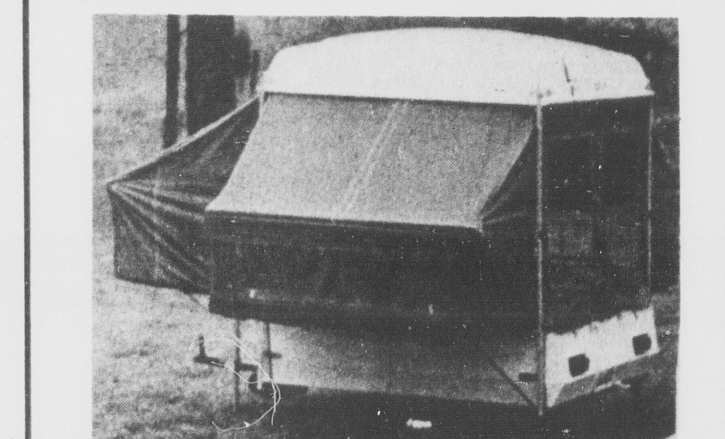

Stewart, however, came down with a bleeding ulcer and must pass up Sunday's 80 lap, 197-mile chase over Mosport Park's tricky 2.47-mile course. Revson, naturally, was selected by team Manager Teddy Mayer as Stewart's replacement, having already earned his credentials by winning five of last year's 10 races and edging teammate Denis Hulme for the title.

Stewart, who won two races last year in a team Lola, is expected to join the tour in time for the next race at Road Atlanta July 9.

Donohue, who won the Indianapolis 500 three weeks ago, makes his debut in the Can-Am in a new Porsche 917-10 fielded by Philadelphia mainliner Roger Penske.

Teachers Pack Political Wallop

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Because of angry young men like Richard deBethizy, Pennsylvania's public school teachers now pack a political wallop felt by every legislator in the state.

Their lobbying gets bills passed; their money and organization helps legislators win or lose elections.

The modish DeBethizy, 29, is president of the largest teacher organization in the Commonwealth—the 90,000-member Pennsylvania State Education Association (PSEA). His militancy, shared by his colleagues, helps explain why teachers have moved out of the classroom and into the smoked filled chambers where political progress is made.

DeBethizy began his teaching career seven years ago in a suburban Harrisburg elementary school, earning $4,500 a year.

He took courses for his master's degree, and to supplement his salary, worked at odd jobs: pumping gas, bartending and washing dishes. Many co-workers of the unmarried DeBethizy were doing the same, and raising families, too. They were frustrated.

The mood was right for DeBethizy, who became active in his PSEA local, and then moved up the ladder of the statewide organization.

As teachers became more militant, they became a closer knit group.

"Now, we're the most powerful lobby in the state," he says, "more powerful than the AFL-CIO. I say that because we represent a cross-section of people, and teachers are in every community of the state."

Every day the state legislature meets, at least three PSEA lobbyists roam the House and Senate chambers. They keep track of legislation teachers are interested in, try to persuade lawmakers the PSEA position is right, and, in some cases, actually write the bills.

At election time, DeBethizy admits, the PSEA rewards its friends and punishes its enemies.

The teacher organization has two ways of doing this. First, the PSEA can supply hundreds of volunteers to work for a friendly legislator—people from his own district. Second, it can hand over considerable financial contributions.

The money is awarded by the Political Action Committee for Education (PACE), PSEA's financial arm.

"We might give a legislator from $100 to $10,000, depending on his needs and how much we have," DeBethizy said.

How much money does PACE have? DeBethizy wouldn't say, but confirmed that each teacher was asked to give $5 annually. If everybody gave that amount, the war chest would total $450,000.

Two examples of teacher power were the elections of Democratic senators W. Louis Coppersmith of Cambria County in 1968 and Henry C. Messinger of Lehigh County in 1970.

In November, 1970, Messinger upset Republican veteran John T. Van Sant—a senator for 15 years—by 1,300 votes. Van Sant was not anti-teacher, DeBethizy admitted, but Messinger was one of the teachers' own—a fulltime field representative for the PSEA. While the statewide PSEA remained officially neutral, 250 Allentown teachers worked for the winning candidate.

"This was the biggest factor in my election," said Messinger.

Coppersmith admitted teachers also helped him defeat Richard J. Green, Jr., a one-term Republican senator at the time.

The PSEA also works the same way in school board elections.

Rep. Max H. Homer, D-Allegheny, chairman of the House Basic Education Subcommittee, agrees that teachers have become politically powerful.

"I look for them to become stronger," Homer says. "They're well organized. They see their power bearing great fruits."

"Teachers have a great influence in a community. They influence young people, and they're articulate. This makes them even more convincing than a labor union official. The average legislator is quite aware of the political clout they now enjoy."

The organized teachers not in the PSEA belong to the 25,000-member Pennsylvania Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO. About 13,000 members belong to the Philadelphia Federation of Teachers, which is increasing its political muscle in that city.

While the city union has negotiated vigorously with the Philadelphia School Board since winning collective bargaining rights in 1965, it only recently became politically involved.

"Our first big political movement was in the mayoralty race last year," said chief negotiator John A. Ryan, referring to the contest between Democrat Frank L. Rizzo and Republican W. Thatcher Longstreth. Rizzo, the winner, was backed by the union leadership.

"We'll be getting involved more," Ryan said. "We're forming a Committee for Political Education within the local. We're having a drive for voluntary contributions, asking $10 a person."

As is the case nationally, the federation and PSEA operate separately, often fighting each other for bargaining rights of a district's teachers.

Pennsylvanians first became aware of the new teacher militancy in 1968, when frustration over low salaries led to 23 strikes.

The anger reached a climax when 20,000 PSEA-Affiliated teachers demonstrated on the Capitol steps, loudly booing then Gov. Raymond P. Shafer when he spoke.

Instead of speeches, they demanded—and received—legislation raising the statewide minimum salary from $4,500 to $6,000.

The next year, teachers started another statewide political drive—the fight for a collective bargaining law with the right to strike.

The legislation passed in July, 1970, after two years of compromises and bitter political confrontation.

Most of the confrontations were between the PSEA and the Pennsylvania School Boards Association, representing 5,000 board members statewide. They are still strong adversaries.

Fred M. Hedding, executive director of the school board group, said he doesn't object to teachers' political involvement, only the way they use politics.

"You have to divide the issue into two components," he said. "How much of the activity is directed at the self interest of the PSEA? How much is directed at the general public, interested in education? Their activity has a preponderance of self interest. Their thrust is a narrow thrust."

Today, the minimum public school teacher's salary is still $6,000, but upper level salaries have increased. Still, after 35 years, most teachers only earn about $12,000, DeBethizy said.

In Philadelphia, a teacher with a bachelor's degree can earn $14,380 at the start of his 11th year. One with a master's can earn $15,200.

Famous Fatima Pilgrim Statue In Johnsonburg

RIDGWAY—The Mother of Christ appeared to three children at Fatima, Portugal in six apparitions from May 13 to October 17, 1917.

At Fatima, 100,000 persons gathered for the final one. It rained that day until noon and then, suddenly the clouds parted and the sun shone through, throwing off shafts of colored light and finally plunging toward earth. The phenomenon was seen within a radius of 20 miles, and many persons thought the end of the world had come.

The chosen children were told by the Virgin Mother to urge the praying of the Rosary to bring peace to the world, and promised too, that through prayer, Russia would be converted.

Subsequently Pope Paul VI visited the Shrine at Fatima and confided the entire world to the protection of Our Lady of Fatima, launching the travels of seven pilgrim statues.

The American statue of the pilgrim virgin will be in the 13 counties that make up the Erie Catholic Diocese.

Extensive preparations are under way for the arrival of the statue in Elk County at Holy Rosary Church in Johnsonburg at 7:30 p.m., June 13.

The Blessed Mother statue will be placed at a specially prepared shrine on the grounds of Holy Rosary Convent where prayers and benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament will take place.

The largest procession in the history of Elk County will follow when the statue will then be transported to the porch of the rectory for benediction and then enthroned on a prepared altar in the sanctuary of the church. Guests are most welcome.

CVCC Pool
Now Open
Every Evening

The Conewango Valley Country Club swimming pool area which opened officially on Memorial Day now is available to members every evening until nine o'clock. Though the extended swimming period is intended to encourage adult use of the facilities, family groups probably will predominate.

Craig Sando, the lifeguard, opens the area every day at noon. It is available throughout the day until nine o'clock closing. Judy Africa is the back-up guard.

The pool is newly painted, has an improved diving board combination, a wading pool, a snack bar for the young people, and new chlorinating equipment. An additional night light soon will be erected.

Rounding out the outdoor facilities as supplements of the golf course will be two rubber-base tennis courts, construction of which may be completed by the end of next week. Meanwhile, work continues on the new nine holes which will be seeded in August or early September if the weather does not hamper the contractor.

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A 10-year-old reader of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin thinks the newspaper should have "a column like 'Dear Abby', only for smaller problems." The newspaper agrees.

So Angel Maria Cavaliere will soon start writing a column of answers to children's questions. It'll be called Dear Angel.

Migrant Labor Camp Bill Riddled With Loopholes

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A measure designed to strengthen state regulation of migrant labor camps has been changed by a House committee in an apparent concession to farmers who depend on migrants to harvest their crops. State officials responsible for enforcing the present law fear the bill as written now could cripple efforts to guarantee safe housing and sanitary conditions for an estimated 10,000 migrant laborers.

"We're not doing nearly enough now to protect the migrants," said one official. "This bill would make things worse."

The Department of Labor and Industry now has primary responsibility for inspection of buildings to house migrant labor, although there is talk of transferring the authority completely to the Department of Environmental Resources.

Environmental Resources now handles some inspections, confined to sanitary conditions in the camps.

Paul J. Smith, Secretary of Labor and Industry, said there has been "no acceptable solution" to conflicts between farmers and their transient migrant help. He said he would accept the legislature's attempts to resolve the issue if it provides him with the necessary funds to hire more inspectors.

The pending legislation was originally drafted to give Labor and Industry clear authority to issue licenses for migrant labor camps, revoke licenses for camps that deteriorate and close down camps without licenses.

The key amendment by the House Agriculture Committee would remove the landowner's responsibility for camp maintenance and shift the burden to the migrant crew leader—who depends on the farmer for his livelihood.

The legislation was approved unanimously by the House last week and stands ready for final passage in the Senate, where it originated.

WARREN TIMES-MIRROR AND OBSERVER

WARREN, PA., FRIDAY, JUNE 9, 1972

Pennsylvania Demos Elect 27 Delegates-At-Large

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Pennsylvania Democrats Thursday elected 27 delegates-at-large to the party's presidential nominating convention, adding 19 men and 8 women to the delegation.

A state committee meeting scheduled for early afternoon was delayed three hours. The committee was to elect another 18 delegates, rounding out the delegation at 182.

The additional delegates boosted the totals for presidential contenders to: Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, 66; Sen. George McGovern, 49; Sen. Edmund Muskie, 35. The total of uncommitted delegates was raised by one, to 12. Alabama Gov. George Wallace merely retained his two elected delegates.

The delegate selection followed more than six hours of private meetings where party leaders tried to work out a balanced slate of delegates that would meet national committee guidelines without offending other party leaders.

National committee rules require each state delegation to the Miami convention to be balanced according to age, race and sex.

Sex was the problem in Pennsylvania since party regulars elected 100 men and 37 women in the primary. Women comprise 52 per cent of the state's population.

The reform guidelines say at least 40 per cent of each delegation must be made up of women.

Party leaders elected by the delegates included Gov. Shapp, Lt. Gov. Ernest P. Kline, Senate President Pro Tem Martin L. Murray of Luzerne County, Philadelphia chairman Peter J. Camiel, Allegheny County Commissioner Leonard Staisey and former Mayor James H. J. Tate of Philadelphia.

Staisey was nominated in a compromise move by the delegation committed to Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota. Bernard Segal, a leader of the McGovern delegation, said the nomination of Staisey was "made in the interest of unifying the party."

"We have made a compromise here," he added.

To make room for Staisey's nomination, a delegate pledged to Alabama Gov. George Wallace, Richard N. Pritchard of McKees Rocks, withdrew a nomination he had made, for John P. Smego of Monaca, Beaver County.

A write-in campaign for two women nearly blocked United Steelworkers President I.W. Abel and Pennsylvania AFL-CIO chief Harry Boyer from seats in the delegation. But two other women gave up their seats to keep the labor leaders in.

The mayor called for more state funds for the city's programs in urban renewal, human relations, veterans, civil defense, business services and employment development.

Rizzo Asks Legislature For $168.3 Million

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Mayor Frank Rizzo asked the state legislature Thursday to support the city's request for $168.3 million in new state aid, nearly $130 million more than the new funds Gov. Shapp has allocated for Philadelphia in his 1972-73 budget.

The mayor called for immediate state takeover of the city's court and prison systems and additional state funding for Fairmount Park and Philadelphia General Hospital.

As he testified, Rizzo joined the ranks of those who say the governor's $3.6 billion budget does not go far enough in meeting the state's needs, particularly in the urban areas. The head of the House Appropriations Committee, Martin P. Mullen, D-Philadelphia, proposes, for instance, an increase by $50 million in the Shapp budget to aid the state's non-public schools.

The state Chamber of Commerce, on the other hand, proposes cutting the budget by as much as $440 million to avoid a heavier tax burden on corporations and individuals.

Rizzo was one of several mayors testifying here before members of the state Senate Appropriations Committee, headed by chairman Benjamin Donolow, D-Philadelphia.

Rizzo said the $38.4 million in new state money allocated for the city in Gov. Shapp's proposed budget was welcome, but said it "falls far short" of $168.3 million requested by the city. "The City of Philadelphia, largest in the Commonwealth, has a responsibility to support its state government," Rizzo testified. "Harrisburg, in turn, has an obligation to us which should and must be met."

The $168.3 million request, Rizzo said, was "Philadelphia's fair share of state resources based on our own input."

Rizzo called the operation of the city courts and prisons, which will cost Philadelphia an estimated $70.3 million this next year, "the rightful responsibilities of the Commonwealth."

The mayor said the city's request for $18 million for Fairmount Park was "ignored" although the request was "consistent with the state funding of its parks in other counties."

"Similar discrimination applies to the short-changing of Philadelphia General Hospital," Rizzo continued. "The governor's budget fails to include our $13.5 million request for PGH, while at the same time fully funding other state general hospitals."

The mayor called for more state funds for the city's programs in urban renewal, human relations, veterans, civil defense, business services and employment development.

Corry Journal Defies Contempt Of Court Threat

CORRY, Pa. (AP) — The Corry Evening Journal has defied a contempt of court threat from a juvenile court judge over publication of a drug case involving a high school pupil.

The pupil took a piece of gum from another student at the Corry Area High School and suffered a severe reaction to the gum, which police said contained an acid-base drug.

When Erie County Judge Fred P. Anthony dismissed the case against the pupil who allegedly gave the gum, the Journal printed an account of the court session.

Judge Anthony sent publisher George Sample an order that stated... "the Corry Evening Journal shall refrain from publishing any and all information pertaining to juvenile matters heard by this court without first obtaining a release of such information from the juvenile court judge."

Beneath a copy of the two-paragraph order on the Journal's editorial page, Sample wrote:

"We have received notice that

Pageant Costs Now Must Be Announced

HARRISBURG (AP) — Parents of children entering beauty pageants can be assured of knowing how much it will cost them when it's over, the Justice Department said Thursday.

The sponsors of the "Our Little Miss Pageant," based in Elmira, N.Y., have signed an agreement to inform parents of potential entrants of all required and optional charges.

Parsons had complained to the state Consumer Protection Bureau that only after paying a $50 non-refundable deposit for their daughters to participate were they notified of other mandatory and optional charges, the department said.

By signing the compliance agreement, the sponsors agreed not to violate the consumer law in the future without admitting past violations.

you intend to install yourself as a censor of news in the Corry Evening Journal.

"Never!" "You have been in office only five months now, Judge Anthony, and we are inclined to regard your communication as an act of impetuous irritation directly related to your lack of seasoning on the bench."

"We exist because of the wisdom of our founding forefathers when they drafted the Constitution... and because of the vital need for a community to be informed... about those things which are good and those which are bad."

"Drugs are bad. We, as a newspaper, have a constitutionally granted obligation to serve all the people. And an obligation also, both moral and legal, not to err in this service."

"You, through a different view, through a different structure of responsibilities have the identical obligation... to serve all the people and not to err in this service."

"It is understandable that we could differ on how we might serve."

"But from this day on, let us be on notice. We will not harm any innocent person in a drug case by public disclosure."

"But neither will we be intimidated by you."

Though Pennsylvania law permits juvenile court judges to keep the records of court hearings secret, many legal experts believe it does not restrict newspapers on what they may print.

Anthony could not immediately be reached for comment on the editorial.

Administrative Housekeepers Hold 3-Day Seminar Here

The Ny-Penn Chapter, NEHA, Inc. held an Educational Institute for Administrative Housekeeping Personnel June 5, 6, and 7 at the Penn Laurel Motel, Warren.

Housekeepers from Erie, Butler and Warren, Pa., and Jamestown, Olean and Wellsville, New York were registered.

The main speaker was Colin

Killion, senior staff instructor of the National Laboratories, Lehman and Fink Industrial Product, Division of Sterling Drug, Inc. He is a graduate of Howard University, where he received a degree in microbiology.

He instructed the seminar in sanitation, microbiology and maintenance. He was assisted by Don Harget and Robert Boyce.

Also included on the program were Mrs. Evelyn Snyder, Director of Housekeeping Services at John J. Kane Hospital, Pittsburgh. Mrs. Snyder serves NEHA as a national board member and national research chairman. She instructed the class in budgeting and records.

Mrs. Betty Tolbert, Public Relations Department, Bell Telephone Co., taught communications and Nelson Johnson, Director of Social Services, Warren General Hospital, addressed the class on sociology. Johnson received a B.A. degree from Harvard College in 1933 and MSW degree from Carnegie Institute of Technology in 1949.

Mrs. Sydney Ann Foster, education, chairman of the Ny-Penn Chapter was coordinator of the institute. Host and hostess were E.D. Murphy, manager of the Penn Laurel and Mrs. J. Moore, Executive Housekeeper, Penn Laurel.

Mrs. Norma Brocious, Director of Housekeeping Services at Warren General Hospital is the president of the Ny-Penn Chapter.

PTA Council Elects Officers

Officers for the coming fiscal year were installed at this week's meeting of the Warren Council PTA.

Karl Hoffman, past president, installed the officers including

Mrs. Raymond Lauffenberger, president; Herman Ristau, first vice president; Donald Artico, second vice president; Mrs. Paul Duliba, treasurer; Mrs. John Karkosky, secretary.

A workshop for all incoming officers of the local PTA units in the Warren School district was discussed. The workshop is to be used to acquaint new officers of their duties and to give them information to take back to their individual units.

The council gathers information from the state and national congress to disperse to the local units and in turn, takes information from local units to the state and national congress.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: When I read the poem from the wife to "The Other Woman" I began to think about the married couples who live in this neighborhood. Here are a few thumbnail sketches of the wives:

Bernice: Wears curlers 24 hours a day. Is a chronic complainer and gets stoned every afternoon on beer. By the time her husband comes home for dinner she is staggering around the kitchen, blind.

Marge: Visits neighbors all day and says she can't do housework except on impulse. These impulses always come at night — when her husband says he is getting ready for bed.

Emily: Weighs 280 pounds. When she eats (which is all the time), she drops food on her chin and clothing. Her bosom looks like a snack tray.

Lenore: Has told all the neighbor ladies they are fools to let their husbands "use" them as substitute call girls. She says SEX is DEGRADING unless a woman is in the mood. Her "Moods" come twice a year.

I am a widow (under 40) and have been propositioned by every one of their husbands. One soft smile, one wide-eyed, listening look and I could be the Other Woman. It shouldn't be that way. Tell 'em, will you?—Huntington Station

Dear Hunt: Tell 'em what? (There's nothing left to say!)

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am divorced and my husband has remarried. I gave him custody of our 13-year-old son because I felt it would be better for an adolescent male to be with his father. I have custody of our 16-year-old daughter. She is a handful but we get along reasonably well.

Last night I came home from my night-school class early. The teacher became ill and the class was cancelled. I caught my daughter and her boyfriend in a most embarrassing situation. There is no question about what they were doing.

The boy is 17—her steady—a nice kid, good student, no bum. He left without saying anything. My daughter was so humiliated she couldn't face me. It's just as well. I was completely unstrung and wouldn't have known how to respond. Please tell me how to deal with this situation. I am—In Pieces

Dear I.P.: You sound like an intelligent woman so I needn't tell you there should be no yelling, berating or punishing. Once a girl has crossed that line the chances for total abstinence are slim.

Discuss with her the seriousness of a physical relationship—the risks, the commitment, the emotional investment. Make certain she has plenty of information. A mother who does this is not condoning pre-marital sex, she is being sensible and realistic.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm heartsick over this and don't know what to do. Last week I was watching my favorite soap opera on TV and my dear friend and next door neighbor telephoned. I said, "I'm washing my hair, I'll call you back." Five minutes later she knocked on the door. She had brought me a freshly baked cake. She could see I was not washing my hair and was very hurt. I apologized but she would not accept my apologies. I've called her three times since but each time she says, "I'm washing my hair," and hangs up.

Please tell me what to do now. —Sorry In Sacramento.

Dear Sorry: Forget it. You've let her know you're sorry and there's nothing more to say or do.

If the friendship ends because of this, it wasn't worth much.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers' booklet, "Marriage—What To Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Tuna Bunwiches And Dip For Summer Lunching

Need a new idea for a weekend lunch or after-the-game snack? Then clip this recipe for Tuna Bunwiches — they're perfect fare for all those times that call for a hearty sandwich. And this clever concoction, is guaranteed to appeal to all tuna lovers, ages 9 to 90.

The filling is a delicious contrast of tastes and textures with celery and chopped peanuts for crunch and prepared yellow mustard for lively flavor. Spread on buns and top with lettuce and tomato slices.

Spicy Fruit Dip is a complementary go-along. Pungent with cinnamon and lemon peel, the dip will keep well in the refrigerator so it's easy to have on hand to serve with fruit.

TUNABUNWICHES
1 package (3-oz.) cream cheese, softened
¼ cup prepared yellow mustard
1 can (7-oz.) tuna, drained
½ cup chopped celery
¼ cup chopped peanuts
Tomato slices
Lettuce
6 hamburger rolls
Beat together cream cheese and mustard until smooth; stir in tuna, celery, and peanuts. Make sandwich with mixture, tomato, and lettuce on rolls. 6 servings.

SPICY FRUIT DIP
1 cup mayonnaise
½ cup sifted confectioners' sugar
1 teaspoon lemon peel
¼ teaspoon cinnamon

French Girl To Be Scout Camp Counselor

Elisabeth Buisson, France, will be the international counselor at two of Penn Lakes Girl Scout Council camps this summer, Hawthorne Ridge and Birdsall Edey.

Elisabeth is 22 years old. Besides being an economic student at Universite de Pau and employed as a typist and English translator for a company which builds turbo-engines for aeroplanes, she finds time for outdoor sports and other hobbies.

Mountaineering, skiing, tennis, volley ball, playing the guitar and puppetry are activities Elisabeth can teach. She has worked with teenagers in Scout camp and French-German camps in the Alps. When asked why she wants to come to America she said, "I should like to spend a few months in the U.S.A. because it is very interesting to compare the different ways in which French and American children are brought up."

"I think that such a stay in the U.S.A. would enlarge my mind and make me acquainted with the life of Americans."

Penn Lakes Girl Scout Council, Inc. is a member of the Warren County United Fund.

Jackie's Magic Still Alive For People Of Washington

By Nan Robertson
(c) 1972 N.Y. Times News Service
WASHINGTON—Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis still evokes that old magic for the people of Washington.

They gave her a standing ovation Monday night as she made her first official appearance in the capital in eight and one-half years to hear the work dedicated to her assassinated first husband in the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The former first lady sat in the opera house's presidential box for the second gala opening of Leonard Bernstein's "Mass," which she had been expected to attend at the spectacular premiere last September. She decided at the last moment not to come, after being pursued and frightened by a curious throng in Poland.

Her arrival this week precipitated a crush of people, applause and "bravos." Mrs. Onassis has made no formal appearance in Washington since President Kennedy was buried on Nov. 25, 1963.

According to her mother, Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss, and the center's general director, William McCormick Blair, Mrs. Onassis had never been inside the great marble structure, named in the President's honor, before this evening.

"It's beautiful. It's just beautiful" she murmured to her companions as she flung her head up to look at the banners and crystal chandeliers dangling from the lofty ceilings of the Hall of Nations and The Grand Foyer.

Time seemed to have changed her little, but she appeared to be thinner and more frail than when she presided over the White House. Her chestnut hair was arranged in a simple shoulder-length fall, flipped up at the ends.

Mrs. Onassis wore a deep green and blue-printed chiffon gown, with a flutter of ruffles at the sleeves and hem. She was flanked as she moved through the rushing crowd outside the opera house by composer Bernstein and Roger L. Stevens, the board chairman of The Kennedy Center.

The three tiers of balconies outside the opera house, facing the grand foyer and a gigantic bust of President Kennedy, were jammed with a frieze of excited faces. The people burst into applause as Mrs. Onassis came slowly up the red-carpeted stairs that lead to the box tier. A wide smile never left her face.

She appeared briefly at the edge of the balcony, then went into the tiny entry to the presidential box with her party. It included Bernstein; the Auchinclosses; Stevens and his wife; Blair and his wife, Deeda, a beautiful brunette who wore a hot pink chiffon gown by Marc Behan of Dior; and the French Ambassador, Jacques Kesciuske-Morizet, and his wife. They sipped briefly at their goblets of $28-a-bottle Dom Perignon champagne.

All had dinner earlier at the Auchinclosses' Georgetown home. The only other dinner guests were Robert S. McNamara, now the head of the World Bank and once Defense Secretary for both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, and Mrs. McNamara.

The McNamaras did not attend the Bernstein "Mass," but went to catch a plane for Europe.

When Mrs. Onassis appeared at the edge of the opera house's presidential box about 8:10 p.m., virtually the entire audience rose with their backs to the stage. They applauded and called "bravo" for several minutes.

Bernstein's work, which the president's widow requested him to compose some years ago, is a quasi-religious "Theater piece" for 200 singers, dancers and players that lasts just under two hours.

The performance took place on a grim anniversary. President Kennedy's younger brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, was mortally wounded in Los Angeles by assassin Sirhan B. Sirhan four years ago and died on June 6, 1968.

Sew And Sews Meets

The Warren County Sew and Sews heard Assistant Home Economist Phyllis Wright speak on several topics at their last meeting held at the home of Mrs. June Johnson.

Miss Wright discussed demonstrations, the 4-H talent show, camp and officer's training.

It was announced that Carol Uhlig and Dianna Rapp are two of the five girls going to the Pennsylvania State Congress. Girls were also reminded of the special types of fabrics needed for each individual project.

The 4-H float, which is to be included in the Fourth of July parade, was discussed.

Following the business meeting, refreshments were served. The next meeting of the group is to be held at the home of Mrs. Johnson June 13 at 1 p.m.

A Nice Addition To The Patio

Counter Adds Patio Fun

When the weather turns warm and the air indoors seems stuffy and confining, most families head outdoors to work, play, and relax while the sun shines.

An open air life-style develops with the season, especially when entertaining moves outdoors and yardwork seconds housework as a prime concern.

Pick-up lunches and barbecue suppers multiply, for convenience and to take advantage of the coolest spot, the garden aromas. An innovation, the outdoor refreshment center has practical appeal when snacks and cold drinks are in demand.

It may be quite a simple project, a serving counter with cupboards below for tableware and barbecue accessories, but location is all-important. A kitchen-dining deck is a likely site, and if the counter is built out from the house wall, it may also serve as a divider between patio table and the busy area off the kitchen.

One home recently visited was beautifully geared to its active family with a plumbed-in serving bar off the dining patio—great for keeping guests outside for pre-dinner drinks or serving a buffet brunch.

A wet bar isn't essential but if a water line is accessible, a drain may be hidden under a wood deck. Not just for entertaining, this addition will eliminate a thirsty gardener's compost trail, or, if there's a backyard pool, keep drip-dry swimmers out of the kitchen.

Built between house and garage, the counter has sides of western pine boards overlaid with battens and stained cocoa brown to match cedar siding. A tall section at its open end forms a doorway to the service court beyond.

Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Baxter, 210 Hammond st. Warren, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Jane Linda Burke to Paul Douglas Crouch, son of Major and Mrs. Walter Crouch, Monessen, Pa.

Jane is a 1969 graduate of Warren Area High School and is attending Edinboro State College where she is majoring in English and Journalism.

Her fiancé graduated from Franklin High School in 1969 and attended Houghton College for two years. Paul is presently a religion major at London University, England.

The couple is planning a September 9 wedding to be performed in the Calvary Baptist Church, Warren.

Miss Burke

Open House

Mr. and Mrs. Laurance Pitt will observe their 50th wedding anniversary Sunday afternoon June 11.

Their children and grandchildren will hold open house for them at the residence of Warren Rohlin, 8 Oak lane, Russell.

The honored couple will look forward to greeting their family and friends on this occasion.

Staff Sergeant Bruce L. Knorpp received his bachelor of arts in behavioral science from LaVerne College, California during exercises held on that campus June 4. Bruce's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Oskar Knorpp, 106 Park st., N. Warren. They were on hand for the graduation ceremony. He is a 1966 graduate of Warren Area High School, and earned the degree by attending noon hour and evening classes while serving a four-year Air Force enlistment at Vandenberg Air Force Base, California, where LaVerne College has a resident center. He is scheduled for discharge August 11.

Tom Lawton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lawton, 13 Church st., N. Warren, graduated from the University of Pittsburgh with a B.A. degree in geography. He was on the Dean's List for the winter term with a point average of 3.60 out of a possible 4.00. Tom has been accepted at the graduate school at Penn State University for the fall term, where he is to study for his masters degree in regional planning.

Donna Freeborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norris K. Freeborough, RD1, Pittsfield, has been named to the second semester Dean's List at Houghton College, Houghton, New York, with a point average of 3.85 out of a possible 4.00.

Lynn Michelle Witkin and Faith Shellie Witkin, twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Witkin, 316 Buchanan st. gained the highest honors a senior can attain when they were selected for Mortar Board, senior women's honorary at the Pennsylvania State University. The selection is based on scholarship, leadership and service. Mrs. John W. Oswald, wife of the president of the University, entertained at a recognition luncheon June 2 for faculty and the 20 senior women receiving the honors.

In addition, the girls have been named to Delta Sigma Rho, National Forensic Recognition Society for their outstanding achievement with the Pennsylvania University Women's Debate Team.

Lynn and Faith have also been elected to Phi Beta Kappa, scholastic honor society, with formal presentations to be awarded at a dinner party for the Phi Beta Kappa Scholars, their families and university representatives June 23, the evening before graduation.

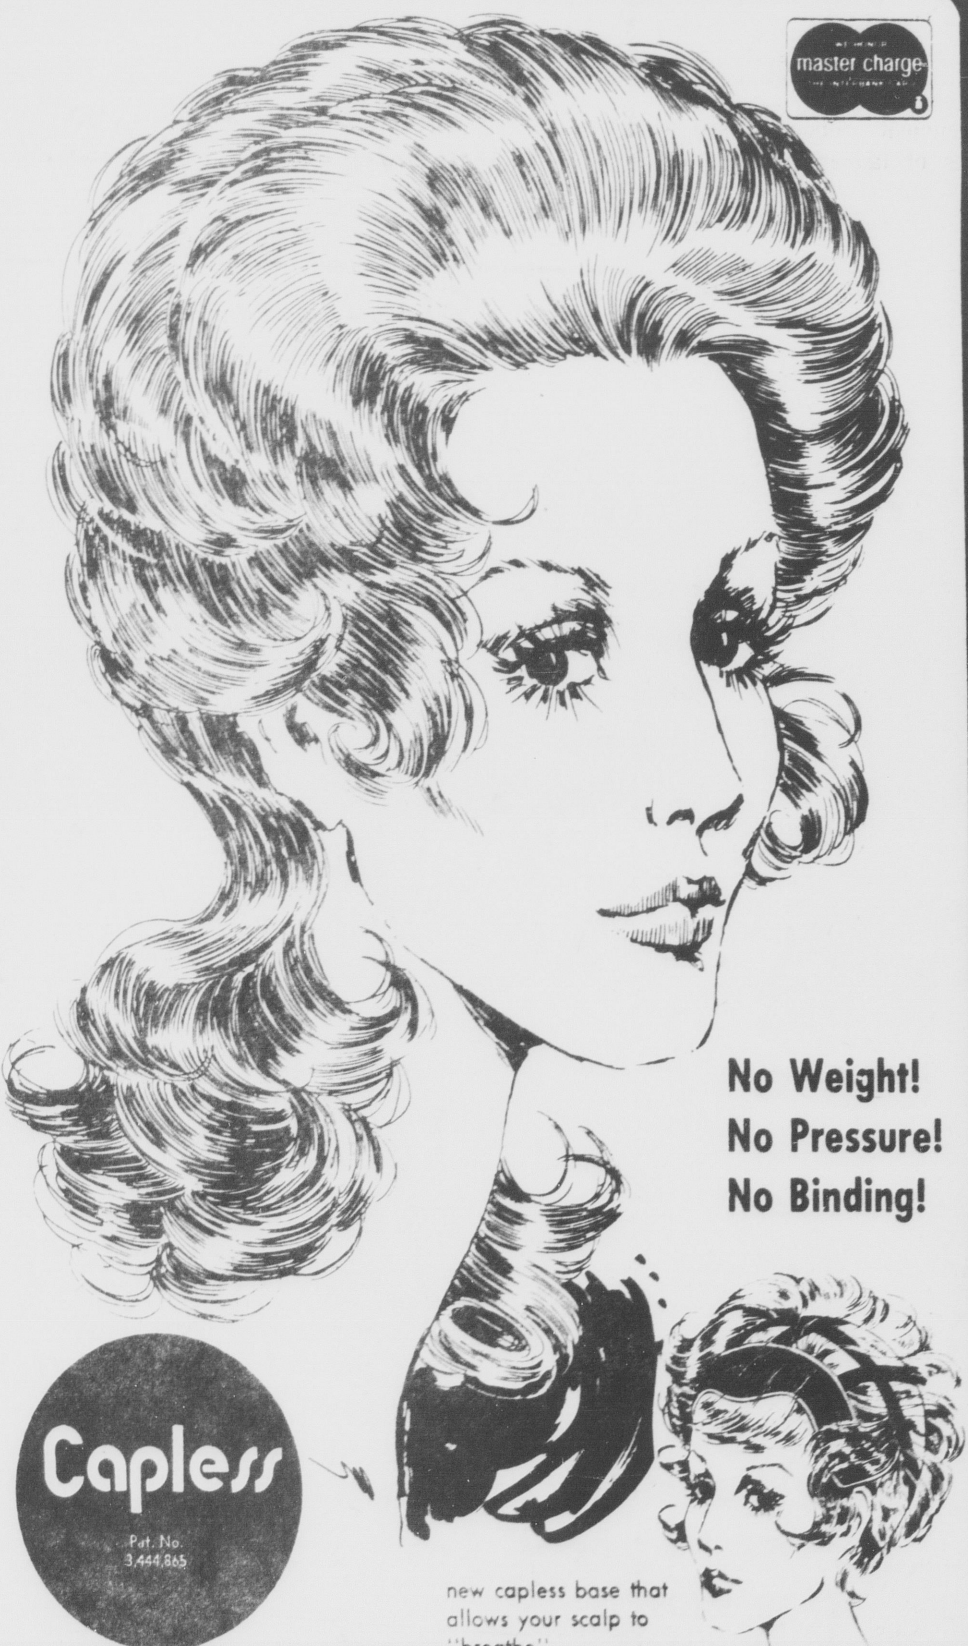

Lynn and Faith graduated from Warren Area High School with honors in the class of 1969, and are to receive their Bachelor of Science degrees in Psychology at Commencement exercises June 24. They will begin their graduate studies at Fairleigh Dickinson University in the fall.

Sixth Graders Win Chamberlain Award

John Johnson, principal of the Sheffield Elementary School, presented the Wayne Chamberlain Memorial Award to Sally Rietter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Olson of Van Eitan ave. and Roger Christy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Christy, Oak st. Both winners were given a $25 Savings Bond.

The Wayne Chamberlain Memorial Award is given for scholastic excellence to a sixth grade boy and girl each year. It is named for the late Wayne Chamberlain, a former principal.

Runners-up for the award were John Kasaback, son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Kasaback of Kane road and Julie Anundson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Anundson, Van Eitan ave.

Many other prizes were given at the annual elementary awards assembly, which was held recently at the Sheffield Elementary School.

Mrs. Carolyn O'Donnell and Mrs. Basil Kulka presented Reading Contest awards, sponsored annually by the Junior Woman's Club. This year's first place winner was Leigh Ann Carlberg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Carlberg of Mill st. who received a $25 Savings Bond. Second place winner in the reading contest was Virginia Camp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Camp of Mill st. who received a book. Both girls will be entering Junior High next year. Semi-finalists in the contest were presented pens and all those who participated received a lapel pin.

Sixth grade writing certificates were presented to the sixth grade students by Gary Whippo and Francis Wagner, sixth grade teachers.

Miss Lydia Taggart, intermediate art teacher, presented awards for a recent art exhibit put on by the students. First place winner in the exhibit was sixth grader Julie Anundson; second place went to fifth grader Carrie Johnson. There was a tie for third place, going to sixth grader Barb Fedorchuk and fifth grader Bonnie Danielson. All received certificates and gifts.

The traditional sixth grade class will be read this year by John Kasaback, to close out another elementary career for 56 sixth graders.

Around Sheffield

A Little Bit Of Huck Finn

By Larry Stotz

Caves have always fascinated small boys and they aren't particular what they accept as a cave. Almost any niche, or overhang, in a rock face will do if they can find shelter there. Although I know of no true caves near Sheffield, there are a few rock shelters. The "cave" effect in a rock shelter is created by overhang on at least one face of a huge sandstone rock mass that has, in ages past, broken loose from the main stratum and crept away from it. This overhang usually gives only frontal protection to anyone seeking shelter.

True caves are natural openings in hillsides or cliff faces, or they may occur deep beneath the earth's surface. Most of the large underground caves are referred to as caverns. They usually occur in limestone formations and were created by water seeping through cracks and dissolving the soluble limestone. Carlsbad Caverns, in New Mexico, has miles of underground passages and huge chambers, spectacular formations of stalactites and stalagmites and multiple interlocking corridors carved out by nature deep beneath the earth's surface. It is probably the largest cave in the world and much of it still remains largely unexplored.

To reach some caves you have to be an accomplished mountain climber, able to scale the sheer face of a high cliff. In the American Southwest, caves high in the cliffs were used by peaceful farmer Indians as living quarters where they often built multi-storied dwellings. In these stone eeries they were safe from the attacks of marauding Indians of other tribes. One of the best examples of these cliff apartment houses is Montezuma's Castle in Arizona. This 5-story dwelling fills the shallow cave, which is situated more than 70 feet above the base of the cliff. To reach it, the ancient occupants used a series of ladders which they pulled up behind them when enemy attack threatened.

There is a little bit of Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn in all of us. In Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer," one of the most memorable scenes occurs in a cave along the shore of the Mississippi River. Tom, while lost in the cave, sees the light of a campfire and stumbles upon Injun Joe's hiding place and is chased by the Indian.

Perhaps some of the fascination that caves hold for people of all ages can be traced back to the Ice Age in Europe when our ancestors some 20,000 years ago were cave dwellers and mighty hunters.

Any Sheffield families interested in caves, while vacationing this summer, may want to consider visiting some of the caves that are under the protection of the National Park System. One of the most interesting ones in the East is a shallow cave in northern Alabama known as Russell Cave National Monument. This cave was first occupied by Indians around 7,000 B.C. And occupancy was more or less continuous by various Indian cave dwellers until the coming of the white man. Archaeologists have carefully excavated all strata of the deposits left by human occupancy down to bed rock.

There are many scattered sites across the Southwestern United States where ancient cliff dwellings were built in or near the mouths of natural caves. Mesa Verde National Park in southwestern Colorado has some of the best-preserved examples of these cave-based dwellings.

For those who like to explore caverns deep underground, Mammoth Cave National Park in Kentucky and Carlsbad Caverns National Park in New Mexico offer miles of underground passageways. Permission can be obtained to explore these cave systems off the standard trails of the guided tours by making application to the superintendent of the local park area. However, access will usually only be granted to experienced "spelunkers" familiar with the hazards of cave exploration.

For those who would like to start out as amateur spelunkers, there are two National Monuments where this can be done. One is at Lava Beds National Monument in northern California and the other is at Craters of the Moon National Monument in Idaho. At each of these places, lanterns and other equipment can be rented at a modest fee. Both areas offer unusual underground scenery and spectacular beauty, but the simpler formations of these lava-formed caves make them less hazardous for the amateur to explore than uncharted areas of the better known cave systems.

The kids who go cave hunting near Sheffield will have to be satisfied with searching for rock shelters. But even these may have a fascinating history. Those that were located along the hunting routes of Ice Age hunters may have been used as early as 12,000 years ago by mastodon hunters, who roasted the meat of these huge American elephants over fires in these rock shelters.

Ludlow Area News

By PHYLLIS DAVIDSON

Weekend guests of Mrs. Gust Carlson were Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffman, Debbie and guest, Margaret Milanovich of Kenmore, N.Y.

Mrs. Bonnie Johnson of Dallas, Texas spent the past week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Agnes Forsgren. During her visit here she was entertained at dinners by Mr. and Mrs. Zony Johnson and Wanda, Mrs. Millie J. Ray, Mrs. E. Helen Johnson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Johnson and family and Allan Nelson. She also enjoyed touring the area, including the Kinzua Dam.

Ed Mamrick of Erie spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Campbell. Carl Swanson underwent surgery for a hip fracture a week ago at the Community Hospital at Kane. Carl is doing as well as can be expected at this time.

Church News

On Sunday at the First Mission Church the Rev. Eric Edman spoke on the scripture from Exodus 32 7:14. Responsive reading was "The Word of God."

The Moriah Lutheran Church on Sunday Mr. Alf V. Benson of Kane presided at the service. Acolyte was Scott Nelson.

On May 28 Joseph Dominick Chiaravallotti, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph (Laurie Olson) Chiaravallotti of Warren became a member of the Christian Church through the sacrament of baptism at Moriah Lutheran Church. Sponsors were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cummings of Clarendon. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Olson of Ludlow and Mrs. Dominick Chiaravallotti of Warren.

The Ludlow Alumni Association meeting and dinner is to be held at St. Paul Center, Saybrook, on July 1. Last year the association voted to include those who attended elementary school in Ludlow but graduated from Kane Area High School. Mrs. Mildred N. Larson secretary of the association has mailed invitations to all graduates.

Other alumni officers are John Straneva, president; Lloyd Peterson of Kane, vice president and John Juban, treasurer.

Miss Patricia Warr of Warren, bride elect of Charles Fetzek, was honored at a bridal shower at the Fetzek home on May 21. Conversation and games were enjoyed by the 25 guests. Hostesses were Miss Susan Fetzek of Erie and Mrs.

James Carlson of Olean. Miss Warr received many lovely and useful gifts. Out of town guests attended from Kane, Wetmore, Olean, N.Y., Warren, Erie, Crosby, Mt. Jewett and Bemus Point, N.Y.

The Golden Age Society of Sheffield, Clarendon and Mead Township will meet at St. Paul Center, Saybrook on Tuesday, June 13 at 1 p.m. Serving on the refreshment committee will be Mr. and Mrs. William Shea, Mrs. Marie Christian and Miss Sadie Weaver.

Birthday Tea Set June 22

The announcement of a Birthday Tea, to be held Thursday, June 22 at 7:30 p.m. was made at the Monday, June 5 meeting of the Loyalty Bible Class of Bethany Lutheran Church. The guests will be seated at a table representing their month and appropriately decorated.

The meeting was opened with a hymn, followed by scripture and prayer by Mrs. Laurence Stotz. Rev. and Mrs. Carl Eliason joined in a discussion on early communion and later confirmation.

There were 14 members present and two guests, Miss Elsie Anderson of Tuscon, Ariz. and Mrs. Floyd Ahlquist of Warren. The meeting closed with a hymn and benediction by Rev. Eliason. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Melvin Sauter and Mrs. C.J. Swanson

Lutherans Plan Church School June 19-23

A Vacation Church School will be held at Bethany Lutheran Church Monday, June 19 through Friday, June 23. Children must have been three before April 1 to be enrolled. Hours for Nursery and Kindergarten children will be 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and for grades 1-8 will be 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Pupils in grades one through eight are asked to bring a bag lunch.

This year's course, "Neighbor," will look at people as they live together in neighborhoods, communities and throughout the world. Its aim is to help children to respond to Christ's challenge to love others as Christ has loved them. Bible study, stories, songs, dramatics, films, games, projects and art activities will be used during the sessions.

Mrs. Ted Young is serving as Director, and Dan Newburg as secretary-treasurer. The teaching staff is as follows:

Nursery-kindergarten, Mrs. Michael Steffan and Mrs. David Gustafson; grades one and two, Mrs. Richard Grubbs and Mrs. Tom Dunn; grades three and four, Mrs. Jeffrey Scalise; grades five and six, Mrs. Carl Eliason; grades seven and eight, Mrs. Gordon Lubold. Assistants will be Valerie Rounds, Laurie Donick, Pamela Johnson and Kim Grubbs.

Transportation for children, if needed may be arranged by calling Mrs. Eugene F. Rodgers Jr. at 968-5496.

Bits & Pieces

Mrs. C.J. Swanson returned home recently after a six-month visit to Rochester and Salamanca, N.Y. She was accompanied by a cousin, Miss Elsie Anderson, a retired nurse from Tuscon, Ariz., who will remain with her as long as needed. Mrs. Swanson is making an excellent recovery from a fractured hip, suffered two months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Louie Kuhns of Waterford called at the home of Miss Retta Pinney and Mrs. Ralph Pitt on June 4. Announcement has been made of the engagement of their youngest daughter, Nancy to Robert Asmus of Waterford, with the wedding date set for Aug. 12. Nancy graduated from Edinboro State College this year.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Danielson, Pastor and Mrs. Carl F. Eliason, and Pastor Robert E. Olson of Ludlow attended the annual convention of the Western Pennsylvania-West Virginia Synod of the Lutheran Church in America at Thiel College in Greenville last weekend. The convention opened with a service of Holy Communion at 2 p.m. on Friday afternoon. Mrs. Clarence Danielson served as lay delegate for Bethany Lutheran Church of Sheffield.

Yuma, Ariz., receives more than 4,000 hours of sunshine a year, twice as much as Seattle, Wash.

Top Sheffield Readers

Today's Best Bets

By RUTH LINDBERG

The first woman rabbi, Sally Priesand of Cincinnati is interviewed on "The Today Show." She is to be ordained June 3 at Hebrew Union College in that city. Also to be featured on the show will be a review of films by Judith Crist; and Dr. Bernhard Grizmek, director of the Frankfurt Zoo is interviewed. This show is seen Monday through Friday at 7 a.m. on WGR, WJAC, WICU.

Fred and Lamont Sanford (Redd Foxx and Demond Wilson) are trapped in their home without food, gas or electricity when two bill collectors arrive in "The Great Sanford Siege," to be colorcast on "Sanford and Son" at 8:00 p.m. on WGR, WJAC, WICU.

"Turned On Crisis" at 8:00 p.m. on WBN is a Ch. 4 Community Affairs Special, hosted by O.J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills. The aim of this vital program is to bring an added understanding to the current drug abuse problem. Joining O.J. will be Greg Morris, Denise Nicholas, Marty Allen and golfer Arnold Palmer.

"The NBC Friday Night Movie" will present at 8:30 p.m. on WGR, WJAC and WICU, "A Rage to Live" starring Suzanne Pleshette, Bradford Dillman and Ben Gazzara. The movie was taken from John O'Hara's 1949 best-selling novel about a woman whose consuming passion for male attention threatens to ruin her life.

This movie is a repeat and I saw it the first time it was shown. I liked the movie and if you like the soap opera type of flick with lots of love affairs, jealous husbands and secret rendezvous, you'll like this movie.

"She Waits" starring Patty Duke, David McCallum, Lew Ayres and special guest star Dorothy McGuire, will be featured on "The New CBS Friday Night Movie" at 9:00 p.m. on WBN, WFBG and WSEE. This is a made-for-TV movie and a ghost story about a young wife possessed by the spirit of her husband's murdered first wife.

The following is a quick run-down of tonight's situation comedies.

"The Brady Bunch," 8:00 p.m. WK-BW: A disastrous soap commercial, featuring the Bradys' less-than-sterling performance, caps an episode starring Paul Winchell as a TV director.

"The Partridge Family," 8:30 p.m., WK-BW: "Home is Where the Heart Is" is the lighthearted misadventures of runaways Chris and Tracy. Song: "I Would Have Loved You Anyways."

"Room 222," 9:00 p.m., WK-BW: Arthur O'Connell stars as a Latin teacher who faces replacement by a computer. Pete's plan is a far-out ad campaign to insure human victory.

"The Odd Couple," 9:30 p.m., WK-BW: Oscar and hypertense Felix are chaperoning Felix's daughter and her delinquent date at a reform school dance.

"The Governor and J.J.," 10:30 p.m., WBN, WFBG, WSEE: Gov. Drinkwater fears that J.J.'s romance with a handsome movie star may have turned her head when she suddenly leaves for Hollywood.

Your Individual Horoscope

By Frances Drake

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, June 9, 1972

ARIES (March 21 to April 20) — Mixed influences: some disadvantages along with the advantages. Study every situation carefully, and your native intelligence will help you make the most of each.

TAURUS (April 21 to May 21) — Reckon with the times, variability of temperaments, and strive the harder to bring out the best in your surroundings. Dress up old ideas; revise tactics.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21) — As with many others now, miscalculations could have far-reaching repercussions and to delay in warranted action could set time backward. So consider likely results before you act.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23) — Do not be dismayed if things seem to get out of hand. Those will be the moments when your innately philosophical self and level-headed analysis will be important. So... use them!

LEO (July 24 to August 23) — You may tend to be too brief or too wordy. Find that happy medium through which misunderstandings are avoided, and real progress will ensue. Clarify "cloudy" areas.

VIRGO (August 24 to September 23) — Shun a tendency to side-step obligations in favor of more pleasurable activities. Set your sights high, establish your pattern early.

LIBRA (September 24 to October 23) — Rationalize, think things out with logic before making important moves. Your seeking, searching mind will permit you to see the essentials—and new opportunities.

SCORPIO (October 24 to November 22) — Much competition in store! You should revel in most of the challenges offered. A fine day for capitalizing on your gift of salesmanship—of your wares AND yourself!

SAGITTARIUS (November 23 to December 21) — As with Libra, serious thoughts should be given before taking serious steps. Don't let superficial attractiveness blind you to flaws at the core of propositions.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 20) — Be guided by logic in stress periods. Give anxiety no quarter. Be prepared to cope with some minor obstacles which may appear.

AQUARIUS (January 21 to February 19) — Sturdy effort will see you through this day of mostly variable influences: Some hours may be really "tricky". All challenges should prove interesting, however.

PISCES (February 20 to March 20) — An appetite for hard work and consistent accuracy will help you break through "impossible" barriers. Reap harvests happily.

ruling planet, Mercury, gives you alertness—both mental and physical; also, a great love of travel. You are one of those persons who could be dropped down on any spot of the globe at a moment's notice and immediately feel at home. Any occupation involving travel is, therefore, a "natural" for you. Other fields in which you could shine: Journalism, painting, the theater, music. Birthdate of: John Howard Payne, composer of "Home Sweet Home"; Robert S. McNamara, former U.S. Sec'y of Defense.

Strange Says Borough Will Enforce Rules

Property owners are reminded of the borough ordinance pertaining to the height of grass, weeds and similar vegetation. Regulations require that grass or weeds must not exceed the height of six inches.

Property owners who fail to comply with this regulation are subject to fines and costs for each violation.

Borough manager, Frank Strange, points out, however, that enforcement of the regulations may be difficult in some instances due to properties being owned by persons out-of-town. The law requires that they may be notified and given five to 10 days to correct any violation.

The borough health officer and other authorities will continue to give these matters immediate attention.

Had the club suit responded favorably, South's somewhat aggressive six diamond contract would have come home with relative ease. As the cards were distributed, the contest became a cliff-hanger that was not decided until the last moment and required a thoughtful play by declarer along the way to assure his success.

Altho South's initial rebid of two diamonds after North's two over one response, left considerable in reserve, the former might have contented himself with making one try without committing the partnership to slam. South's three diamond call shows a second five card suit and when North raises to four, it is suggested that South cue bid the ace of hearts. If partner merely returns to five diamonds, which he will do with no extra values, that should be the end of the auction.

West opened the king of hearts and South won the trick with the ace. It did not appear that there was adequate transportation between the closed hand and dummy to establish declarer's spades by ruffing out his losers, so he decided to work on North's clubs.

A small club was led at trick two and when West followed with the five, the jack was finessed—losing to the king. (While it is clear that going up with the ace would have simplified matters, the chances for dropping a lone king are too remote to warrant consideration.) East returned a heart which declarer ruffed.

The ace and queen of diamonds were cashed in preparation for drawing trump, as both opponents followed suit. Before leading over to North's king, South made a play which slightly increased his chances. A club was played, West put up the nine which was covered by dummy's queen. East showed out, but having no more trumps was obliged to take a harmless discard.

The ace of clubs was cashed on which declarer stuffed a spade and a fourth round of clubs was led and trumped in the closed hand as West's ten appeared. South's remaining diamond was led to the king to draw the last trump and on the eight and six of clubs, he disposed of two more spades.

A spade was led from dummy at trick 12, East followed with the nine and declarer finessed the queen. When this held the last hurdle had been surmounted and the ace of spades took the fulfilling trick.

How To Keep Well

The Pre-Paid Medical Care Controversy

By Dr. T.R. Van Dellen

China is an ancient culture, and that country's concept of medical care abounds in rare, curious, and centuries-old restorative treatments and remedies. Most Americans have been led to believe that, in the past, the Chinese paid their doctors to keep them well and not to treat them when they got sick. I have always questioned whether this is true because it involves too many problems relative to being reimbursed when well. Furthermore, what preventive measures did they use? Perhaps the medico was on a retainer or annual salary and received no additional money when treating the ill person.

We have no idea of how successful the Oriental plan was, but we receive many letters from people who believe a Western or modified version of the Chinese plan might work here. Of all the health programs being proposed in Washington, the one that comes closest to the Chinese version is a huge national network of prepaid group practices called Health Maintenance Organizations (HMO).

One of the selling points of HMO is that the doctor is paid in advance to promote the prevention of disease. Theoretically, he will do everything possible to keep his patients well via frequent examinations, X-rays, laboratory tests, consultations, and vaccines. By the same token, those who join an HMO will not hesitate to call a physician the moment they feel ill or develop the slightest distress. After all, he (the doctor) already has been paid.

Early treatment may enhance the chance of being cured without hospitalization. But the highly neurotic patient who is constantly badgering the physician may be asked to withdraw from a particular group because he is crying "wolf" too often.

Health plans of these types are known as contract practice. Furthermore, hundreds of such clinics have been established in this country, usually with government aid. However, they are expensive and are not the answer to all our health ills. Most of our current diseases stem from obesity, lack of exercise, anxieties, excesses in liquor and cigarettes, accidents, drugs, and other abuses. All of the preventive measures in the world cannot overcome the ravages of reckless living. The adage "Man does not die, he kills himself" is so apropos.

TOMORROW: Farmer's Skin. Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

CORTISONE
SIDE EFFECTS
W.W. writes: I hear so many reports of the side effects of cortisone, I wonder who should not use it.

REPLY
This corticosteroid has an anti-inflammatory effect that makes it useful in the treatment of arthritis and asthma. But it is a hormone and produces temporary side reactions that are unpleasant. It should not be used by persons with heart, kidney, or psychiatric diseases. The same applies to those who have tuberculosis, peptic ulcer, softening of the bones, and convulsions.

ROLES IN METABOLISM
H. writes: Please explain the role of hormones, vitamins, and enzymes in metabolism.

REPLY
It would take a book to answer this question, and by the time it was published, the material probably would be out of date.

Hints from Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
Too much laundry, Mom? Try this:

Take old unused knee socks and cut off the feet.
At mealtime, slip one up each arm of your toddler (top of sock at wrist).
Saves the shirt from getting messy. (Of course, a bib is needed still for around his neck.)
Susie Cahill

DEAR HELOISE:

When I was a busy person in the prime of life I used to wistfully recite, an anonymous little rhyme—"I wish I was a little rock setting on a hill and doing nothing all day long but just setting still."

Now that I am retired, crippled by arthritis, and trying to keep my little cottage in a civilized state, that wish is perilously near fulfillment!

Here is a list of some helpful things I've done:

Lowered ceiling lights to the place where I can change bulbs without climbing.

Made a "Heloise" net dishcloth—easier for crippled hands to clutch—by cutting a 6- to 8-inch-wide strip across the four thicknesses and tying it into a knot in the middle. The knot gives bulk to grab and is especially helpful in cleaning inside cups and glasses or when special scrubbing power is needed.

Installed a contraption for helping pull myself out of the bathtub. It consists of a heavy metal screw eye, screwed into the wall at the point of standing. Into it I looped a length of nylon clothesline. I tied knots at intervals, and further bulked them by putting a terry finger towel above the knot. You grab the knot with your hand around the towel. Thus it needs no further anchoring.

The screw eye was the type used for hammock ropes. I not only use this when getting out of the tub, but I found myself using it when standing on one foot while dressing.

I truly hope these suggestions may prove helpful to other lame or crippled folks.

With fond affection,
Nellie M. Walker

LETTER OF THOUGHT

DEAR HELOISE:
Stitch 'em!
Yes, stitch those flour and sugar sacks instead of just pasting. Write your flour, sugar, and corn meal companies to please close their sacks by stitching instead of sealing. And ask them to sew in a "rip cord." (I believe there is one sugar firm already doing this.)

Opening a sack that is sewn is a real joy. Just one quick jerk on the rip cord, and the sack is open. No muss, no fuss, no spills.

So, dear laborers of the kitchen, write the companies.
"In union, there is strength."

DEAR HELOISE:

I line my cookie jar with a clear plastic bag—so the cookies stay fresh—down to the last one. I'm always sure to fold the top of the bag over before replacing the cover.

I also line my little brown sugar jar which I keep on the breakfast table. I use a small plastic sandwich bag for that. Now the brown sugar stays soft.

Grace Forness

DEAR HELOISE:

Using your pecan pie recipe, substitute one can of coconut for the pecans, and you will have a coconut pie that melts in your mouth.

My recipe calls for dark corn syrup, but either dark or light can be used.

Better make two because one goes very fast.

Wildwood, N.J. Losing Marbles

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Citing increased expenses and waning interest, the city has decided to bypass the National Marbles Championships, held each year in Wildwood, N.J.

Stephen George, director of the parks and recreational department, who estimated that it cost more than $700 to send the winners and chaperones to New Jersey each year, said:

"...we decided that interest was waning, recreational needs are changing and the money could be better used elsewhere."

The city has sanctioned marble competition for at least 40 years.

Surprise Testimony Ends Clarion Marijuana Trial

CLARION—Following the testimony of a surprise witness, the case of the Commonwealth vs. Carl Wilcox, RD 2, New Bethlehem, was not pressed in criminal court Tuesday.

Wilcox was charged with possession of marijuana, a violation of the Drug Device and Cosmetic Act.

Following almost a full day of testimony by the Commonwealth against Wilcox, the defense introduced a surprise witness, Martin D. Gilfillan, formerly of Rimersburg. Gilfillan testified under oath that he was the one that brought the marijuana into the apartment where Wilcox was arrested.

Gilfillan testified that when the door bell rang, he tossed the marijuana to Wilcox who did not know what it was.

District Attorney H. Ray Pope III questioned Gilfillan as to why he waited so long to report it and Gilfillan answered, "I wanted to surprise you."

Pope not-prossed the Wilcox case and Gilfillan agreed to plead guilty to possession of marijuana.

LITTLE CHEF OPEN 11:00 AM til ? CLOSED MONDAYS

GRIN AND BEAR IT

BY LICHTY

"Of course, it's still true every kid can grow up to be President!... unless his friends decide they'd rather do something else with their money!"

The doctor told me, "Marguerite, you can be alive and ugly, or beautiful and dead!"

The day I first noticed the small pink spot on my cheek, I had other things on my mind. The New York papers said, "Marguerite Piazza opens at the Persian Room." I covered the spot with makeup, walked out into the spotlight, and forgot it—forgot everything—in the joy of singing.

It wasn't until the spot began to spread, that I went to a cancer specialist. The day the doctor told me I'd have to have radical face surgery, I was sure my career was over. It was no longer a matter of saving my looks. Just of saving my life.

They kept the mirrors in my hospital room covered for a week. And yet today, thanks to the fantastic skill of the surgeons, I sing in the spotlight again. I let myself be photographed full-face by a famous photographer of glamorous women. And I am alive.

So now you know why I am appealing to you on behalf of the American Cancer Society. To give money. To get regular check-ups. And to pay attention to cancer's warning signals.

You know, there's something much worse than finding out you have cancer. And that's not finding out.

American Cancer Society We want to wipe out cancer in your lifetime.

NOTE TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

DECEMBER 31, 1971 INDENTURES, AGREEMENTS OF LEASE, AND MANAGEMENT AGREEMENT

As of February 1, 1962, the Authority issued $150,000 principal amount of water and sewer revenue bonds, Series A, the proceeds of which were used mainly for the purchase and improvement of a water system. As of June 1, 1963, the Authority issued $335,000 principal amount of water and sewer revenue bonds, Series A of 1963, the proceeds of which, with grants and assessments, have been used mainly for the construction of a sewer collection and treatment system. The bonds are secured by an indenture and first supplemental indenture.

Simultaneously with the issues of bonds, the Authority entered into an agreement of lease and a first supplemental agreement of lease with the Township of Sheffield. The Authority has also entered into a management agreement with the Township.

Under the agreements of lease and management, the Authority collects the revenues from the systems and deposits them in the Sheffield Township water and sewer fund. The revenues are used to pay semiannual rentals to the Authority and to reimburse the operating fund for operating expenses. The agreements of lease provide that if revenues from the water and sewer system are not sufficient to pay rentals, the Township will provide the deficiency from other available current revenues of the Township. The agreements also provide for annual payment to the Authority of excess money in the water and sewer fund.

ACCOUNTANTS' OPINION

The Municipal Authority of the Township of Sheffield, County of Warren, Pennsylvania

We have examined the balance sheets of The Municipal Authority of the Township of Sheffield, County of Warren, Pennsylvania, as of December 31, 1971 and the related statements of income and excess of assets over liabilities for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion, such financial statements present fairly the financial position of The Municipal Authority of the Township of Sheffield, County of Warren, Pennsylvania, at December 31, 1971 and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles for municipal authorities applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

THE PROBLEM WITH MOST STATION WAGONS IS THEY'RE EITHER TOO BIG ON THE OUTSIDE OR TOO SMALL ON THE INSIDE.

There's no denying that the big station wagons have a lot of room, but for the one or two times a year you might really need a big wagon, think of how many times a week you have to go around the block looking for a place to park it.

On the other hand, the smaller station wagons, while considerably easier to handle, sometimes have so little space inside they're hardly worthy of the name station wagon.

At Fiat, we discovered that a station wagon doesn't have to be big on the outside to be big on the inside.

The Fiat 124 station wagon fits in the same parking space as a Volkswagen Beetle. But, on the inside it's 17 cu. ft. bigger than the VW Squareback, 9 cu. ft. bigger than the Toyota Corolla, and 6 cu. ft. bigger than the Datsun 510.

And when you stop by to see it, you'll discover one more nice thing about our station wagon.

It only costs $2535 p.o.e. FIAT

Little things mean a lot.

Surprisingly enough, our little features don't add up to lots of dollars. At $1,999.00* a new Volkswagen is easy to buy and even easier to own. Our warranty* is longer than anybody's except Rolls Royce, and for efficient service nothing will beat our built-in computer service system starting later this year. Of course, someday you may decide to sell your Beetle. Don't be alarmed. After 3 or 4 years used Volkswagen Beetles have had a higher resale value than other economy cars.†† Selling it is the final joy of buying it.
